CARROLL DOOMED BY GUN!

Defense Says:

DWYER A LIAR; HE DID IT!

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 12—Barbara Carroll, "the girl in the case," sat unmoved today in a jammed courtroom as counsel for the state and the defense argued her father's charged guilt and his claimed innocence in the Littlefield slayings.

In Spotlight
"Among her souvenirs" —Barbara Carroll shown in an interesting pose as she examines material for her scrap book.

Special Prosecutor Ralph M. Ingalls stressed the fact that Francis M. Carroll, testifying in his own defense, "failed to say he was guiltless," and asserted that "diamond-shape marks made by Carroll's gun on Dr. Littlefield's head," proved him the slayer.

BOSTON POST FRIDAY AUG. 12 1938

PROOF OF A CLEAN SCOOP!—These facsimiles of front page stories in Boston Evening American and its rivals show how completely this newspaper beat all others with Austen Lake's exclusive story of James Roosevelt's real income as bared by his income tax returns. Moral is: Read the Boston Evening American for News while it is News.

Lake's Story First: Jim O.K's Figures

Corroborating an exclusive Boston Evening American story of two days ago, James Roosevelt today made public his total taxable income for the past five years.

It was $172,978.03, according to his figures, not counting the $10,000 salary he received last year as secretary to his father, the President.

James Roosevelt's announcement of his income was made in an interview which appeared today in Collier's Weekly, and which was also broadcast over a national network.

Hailed as of national import was his refutation of a magazine writer's previously published charge that his insurance business, aided by the Roosevelt name, had netted him "between $250,000 and $2,000,000 a year.

Interviewed over the NBC Network at his Campobello, N. B., summer camp by Walter Davenport, associate editor of Collier's Magazine, young Roosevelt said that "being the son of the President, they'd have been calling me crook no matter what business I had entered."

REVEALED BY LAKE

What James Roosevelt said today about his earnings, however, the Boston Evening American said for him—day before yesterday!

At that time, Austen Lake, ace writer of the Boston Evening American staff, revealed in round figures James Roosevelt's exact year by year income.

The Boston Evening American's noteworthy news beat of Wednesday and the Collier's Weekly interview of today together answer questions raised by a Saturday Evening Post article which appeared July 2 under the title, "Jimmy's Got It."

Walter Davenport of Collier's today quoted James Roosevelt as inviting investigation of his business affairs by "some hard-hitting anti-New Deal senator."

"My trouble seems to be a mixture of being the son of the President and not failing in business," James was quoted as saying.

OFFICIAL FIGURES

The United States Treasury Department, at the request of the President's son, turned over to Davenport certified photostatic copies of his tax statements which showed that his annual income never had touched $50,000. The returns showed that in fact his income for five years in question was as follows:

1935—$33,593.37.
1936—$44,668.60.
1937—$23,834.38.

Referring to statements that he had continued his insurance operations since assuming his post in the White House, James Roosevelt said:

"Since I have been my father's secretary, since I have been in Washington, I have not solicited nor attempted to solicit—no, and I haven't accepted — a single dollar of insurance from anyone, any time, anywhere. Anything to the contrary is a miserable lie."

STARTED HERE

James Roosevelt described his start in the insurance business in Boston, and answered one after another the various charges of impropriety made against him.

"I got into places I never would have if I wasn't the son of the President," he said. "But son or no son, I got tossed out a lot too.

"Prospects don't wait just because you're the son of the President."

To back up this statement, he listed large industrial and utility accounts which he tried to sell without success, he said, because other insurance agents were able to underbid him. These included the North American Corporation, Paramount Pictures, Stone & Webster and the Ford Motor Company.

"Being the son of the President, they'd have been calling me a crook no matter what business I had entered," Young Roosevelt stated, "provided of course that I had been successful. If I had graduated from Boston University Law School (which I attended for a time) and had practiced law privately or in the government service—well, use your imagination.

"If I had opened a neat little corner grocery store and was making anything above the rent they'd have been saying that relief money would have had to be spent in my store, or else."

Bund Secrets Bared as Dies Probe Opens

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—Admission that the Hitler government in Germany officially supports the Nazi movement in the United States was made by Fritz Kuhn, German-American Bund leader, the Dies committee investigating un-American activities was told today by one of its own agents.

It was with the spectacular testimony of the agent, John C. Metcalfe, a former Chicago newspaperman and the first witness, that the committee opened its far-reaching investigation into all subversive groups operating in the nation.

Metcalfe testified:

1—That Kuhn told him he had forced the removal of Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador to the United States.

2—That an entire company of the National Guard in Illinois was, at one time, composed of members of the Bund.

3—That Bund leaders said the Nazis in the United States are "opposed to all Democratic governments."

4—That there may be a greater power behind the Nazi movement in the U. S. than Kuhn, although Kuhn is nominally head of the Bund.

5—That Fascist Blue Shirts—or Italian Black Shirts—engaged in rallies with the German Bund storm troopers who were trained in the same manner as those for the regular Hitler army.

Metcalfe spent six months investigating the Nazi movement in this country for a newspaper. He became a storm trooper. When he quit newspaper work, he was retained by the Dies committee to continue his investigation.

The real aims of the Hitlerized corps of German Americans, he said, were establishment of a vast spy net, a powerful sabotage machine, and a German minority with the present group as a nucleus and to encompass as many German-Americans as possible.

Kuhn explained his close relationship with the Nazi government, he said, after Metcalfe reported on a trip he made to Bund posts in many cities.

Metcalfe said that a principal means of fostering Nazi aims in this country is the Auslands Bureau, of Stuttgart, Germany. This foreign institute at the present time, he said, is manned by men who were former leaders of the Nazi movement in the United States.

Voke Urges Compromise in Relief Fight

Blaming both sides for the deadlock of the state legislature over unemployment relief funds, Mayor Edward E. Voke of Chelsea today suggested to the legislative ways and means committee that they go "halfway" with Governor Hurley's demands. He appeared as president of the Massachusetts Mayors' Club.

Mayor Voke suggested a compromise apportionment of $5,000,000 in highway gas tax funds, by which half would be expended through cities and towns and half through the State Department of Public Works.

The bone of contention has been the determination of the governor to have the funds expended under his public works department while the Republican-controlled legislature stuck to its guns for distribution through cities and towns, mostly Republican.

On this phase, State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley told the committee today that the controversy has already robbed both sides of any political advantage.

Mayor Voke also told the committee that the mayors of the state's 39 cities were really the ones "in the trenches" with the unemployed, because they cannot find jobs for those in their cities until the Legislature and the governor agree on some sort of measure for relief.

Baby Will Live And She'll See

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (INS) — Drawn and haggard from lack of sleep, Mrs. Herman Colan got the news today.

"Baby Helaine Colan will live—will see—cancer of the eye arrested."

Laughing, crying, the mother of Chicago's four-month-old "glioma baby" said:

"I don't know what to say. I'm so happy—so happy. This is the first cheerful news, the first good news we have had since Helaine was born."

Doomed to die when her eyes were attacked with the deadly cancerous growth, baby Helaine's life was saved originally by removal of the left eye. But it was not enough—her right eye also had been attacked and her life was endangered.

Specialists prescribed radio treatment to save the remaining eye and save the baby's life but the results were in doubt and so this week baby Helaine, her mother and her grandmother came by plane from Chicago to Columbia medical center and arranged an examination by Dr. Algernon B. Reese, noted specialist.

Today they had the doctor's report. The baby's condition is good. No operation is necessary but there must be further radiation. The cancerous condition has been arrested and the baby will have the sight of her remaining eye.

GIRL, 17 HALVES COURSE AT TECH

She didn't go to school until she was 12, but at 17 she is a senior at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. That is the story of curly-locked Domina Spencer of Philadelphia.

She entered the Cambridge engineering school last year and did two years' work in one. What is more, she made the dean's list. And the young lady intends to do the same thing this year, collecting her diploma in June.

There is the small matter of completing her thesis in time. But what is the small matter of a thesis to a young intellectual who plays six instruments in addition to performing engineering feats?

At least, it takes a mere male attending the engineering institute four years to collect his sheepskin.

The musical instruments to her credit include the piano, viola, cello, violin, flute and Irish harp. And the career lady sings in the choir and sails a boat.

But she prefers mathematics. She majors in physics at Tech. Prior to her formal school education at the belated age of 12 Domina learned her A B C's at her mother's knee.

This summer, to top it all, Domina is taking some courses that are fun at the M. I. T. summer school.

Ruth Berman of Dorchester is another young lady engineer attending M. I. T. summer session. She prefers chemistry.

Sylvia Sidney To Wed Actor

SYLVIA SIDNEY

LONDON, Aug. 12 (INS) — Sylvia Sidney, Hollywood motion picture star, and Luther Adler, American actor, revealed today that they intend to be married.

It was expected the wedding ceremony will take place either next Thursday or during the following week.

End 44-Year Dash

In a non-stop hike from Boston Common to the Boston Evening American office—done in the fast time of 44 years, 8 months, and 22 days—Sam, Susie and Sylvester Snail arrived at their goal today demanding a mollusk marathon.

Susie, dressed in a chic sheen of mud and wearing the latest speckled antennna, was spokesman for her two brothers, who were delayed 36 hours after they fell off the top step of the third floor. They fell eight inches.

To the city editor she announced:

"Forty-four years ago we read about the snail's pace. We decided it was an insult to our people and made up our minds to run over to see you."

"You made good time," commented the editor.

"Thank you," replied Susie, with a maidenly swish. "But we are here for our purpose. We want you to publicize our marathon. We want to show Boston that the snail's pace does not belong in the paper, or even in the dictionary."

Promptly an arena was set up (as soon as Sam and Sylvester arrived), and the race began. It started from a chair on the fifth floor at 4:20 a. m. today. The goal was a gold-plated aquarium to be built in the basement of this newspaper building.

Final results published here on or about August 12, 1988.

French Liner Crashes Pier On First Trip to Boston

Despite the efforts of four powerful tugs, the palatial 29,000-ton French liner Champlain in the grip of cross winds whipping across the harbor smashed into the end of Commonwealth pier while docking today.

It was reported no one was injured but a small section of the pier was ripped out and seven of the liner's lower deck portholes were stove in.

The Champlain, making its first visit to this port, disembarked a score of returning European tourists and later embarked nearly 200 New Englanders bound on Quebec and European tours.

Landing from the Champlain were Lieutenant and Mrs. William H. Blanchard of Chelsea, returning from a two months' honeymoon tour of France and the British Islea.

Lieutenant Blanchard, who was married an hour after his graduation from West Point last June, has been assigned to flying instruction at Randolph Field in Texas.

Others debarking were Frederick Moore, 13, and his sister, Mary, 15, of Weston, who, with their grandmother, Mrs. Mary Nash of Weston, toured France and England for seven weeks; Mr. and Mrs. John Corcoran of Garden street, Cambridge, and Mrs. Marguerite Hoxie and her daughter, Edna, of Lincoln street, Belmont.

During the Champlain's six-hour stay here a special sightseeing tour was arranged for a group of passengers, delegates to the international congress of building and loan societies to be held in Zurich, Switzerland, next month.

Joining the delegation here were Judge and Mrs. Ralph M. Smith of Somerville. Judge Smith is president of the Middlesex Federal Savings Loan Association.

Hosts of the delegation was Ernest A. Hale, president of New England League of Federal Savings Institutions. Hale will join the group when it reaches London.

Barbara Cool Under Blasts

Chapman charged that Paul Dwyer's story on the stand against Carroll was false and that the doctor-slaying was committed by Dwyer and "led from the mental poison of reading detective stories about a perfect crime."

As the prosecutor excoriated him as a slayer who even had made no denial of a sordid charge in connection with his own daughter, Carroll sat gazing at the floor.

BARBARA'S HEAD UP

But Barbara and her mother, seated together among the spectators, had their heads up and were listening intently throughout, both to Ingalls and to Chapman.

Thus Maine's strangest fantasy in crime proceeded toward a close, with the possibility that the jury of country-residents might reach a verdict before the birth of a new day.

The state has proved its charge that Carroll murdered Dr. James G. Littlefield, the kindly neighborhood physician, Ingalls asserted to the jury.

NO REBUTTAL

The State's case was made up of romanticisms from the mind of a youth who kissed and told, dragging his woman's name in shame, Defense Counsel Chapman retorted.

Ingalls argued first, beginning immediately after the State had closed its case without offering rebuttal testimony, although a rebuttal, and perhaps a surprise, had been expected.

In Maine court procedure, unlike that in Massachusetts, the state argues first, with the defense having the last word before the judge charges the jury.

Not slim and frail Paul Dwyer, but Carroll, the former peace officer, committed the murders of Paris Hill and Turkey Hill, charged Ingalls, who said:

"You want to know what killed Dr. Littlefield? Francis Carroll's gun!

"WOUND FITS GUN"

"You want to know what made that wound on Dr. Littlefield's head. This gun of Francis Carroll's!

"How does it happen otherwise that the diamond shape marking of the wound on Dr. Littlefield's head so precisely fits the diamond markings on the butt of Francis Carroll's gun."

ABSENCE OF DENIAL

In crisp, biting words, Prosecutor Ingalls pointed out to the jury that Dwyer, 19, now serving life after pleading guilty to the slaying of Dr. James G. Littlefield, had no motive to murder the elderly physician and his wife, Lydia.

But Carroll had a deep-seated motive, Ingalls asserted—a threat by the physician that he would put the defendant in state prison because he allegedly had carnally attacked his own daughter, Barbara, high school sweetheart of Paul.

Emphatically, the prosecutor pointed out:

"Carroll, at no time has told you he was guiltless of this crime against his own daughter."

And Ingalls added sharply:

"At no time was this daughter produced to tell you that her father was guiltless."

Carroll's defense story on the stand, detailing his claimed movements on the night of October 13, 1937, the night the doctor was slain in the Dwyer home, atop Paris Hill, was characterized by Ingalls as an "unbelievable series of statements."

"UNHIDDEN SECRET"

"Francis Carroll was there on that hill that night," thundered the prosecutor. "God never made the man who could keep such a secret as Carroll's! He sees every eye that looks at him seeing his secret!"

It had been expected that Ingalls might spring a surprise and call Barbara Carroll to the stand as a state's rebuttal witness, but the jammed courtroom failed to see the expectation realized.

CARROLL CASE ARGUMENTS

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 12—Following is the text of closing arguments to the jury today in the trial of Francis M. Carroll on charges of murder:

In his closing augument Special Prosecutor Ingalls said, in part:

"The law exacts no penalty that it would not exact if it could deter crime and make life safer for innocent people. Who are the innocent? My brother will tell you Francis Carroll. I say, Dr. Littlefield was innocent.

"Who are the innocent?

"Children born into the world should not be desecrated. They are innocent.

"Make this community safe in the nighttime.

"My brother will tell you Francis Carroll is innocent. I say Mrs. Littlefield was innocent. You, Mr. Forman, and every member on this panel want to know that, insofar as your ability is concerned, this community is safe in the nighttime as in the noontime.

"We face a strange situation. Is it a time for accepting the story of a fatherless and almost unmothered boy? We find him first in planned sin and at the last taking Dr. Littlefield for a ride.

BARBARA'S SILENCE

"Dr. Littlefield had the right to live in this community after his work was done, in peace, security and happiness. This was a community for which he worked and loved. Instead, his life was brutally taken.

"For what cause? Because of the acts of a father towards his daughter he blurted out what he thought of it and gave his life.

"He was killed with brutality, bestiality and with terrific violence. My God, couldn't he have shot the man—couldn't he have shown some mercy? And to Mrs. Littlefield!

"Dr. Littlefield's wife was brutally taken from him, his body bruised, his head beaten—for what cause? What lies back of it? The unfatherly acts of a father debauching his own daughter!

"Carroll stood before you, he didn't say he was guiltless of that accusation.

"There has been no denial by Mr. Carroll—at no time has he told you he was guiltless of this crime against his own daughter. At no time was this daughter produced to tell you that her father was guiltless.

"The state has shown that he was up at that house. I furnished one person here who knew and saw him. I furnished three others who saw him in the car. Francis Carroll sitting up there on Paris Hill—what for?

"The greatest duty of your life is now upon you. This boy, enamored of the girl, confused, baffled—

"We have no fingerprints for you. They have been removed.

WHAT CARROLL SAID

"The good name of the State of Maine is at stake. Maybe Carroll didn't know what was going to transpire. Maybe Carroll didn't know into what he was going to lead this innocent boy. But Francis Carroll was there on that hill that night.

"He asked you to believe this unbelievably unreal series of statements. God never made the man who could keep such a secret as Carroll's. He sees every eye that looks at him seeing his secret.

"He tells you he never talked it over with his wife and daughter. Never talked over Barbara's letters, never talked over young Dwyer's revelations.

"No father on earth would act that way—would not have demanded at least, 'What are you talking about?'

"He didn't act the rational man—his secret had captured him.

"He says as the investigation went on that he didn't know what was going on. But he tells you that he said to Sidney Verrill, 'Paul Dwyer is trying to implicate me in the murder.'

"When he is arrested by the sheriff for incest what does he say? He says:

"'My God, sheriff, you don't think I killed Dr. Littlefield?'

"What did he think he was being arrested for?

DEAD MAN'S PICTURES

"Paul Dwyer has told you just what happened.

"Dr. Littlefield said, 'Carroll, I know all about you.'

"He was an outstanding citizen, a leading citizen, a man Carrol knew was a man of outstanding character. How could he stop Dr. Littlefield then without slaying him?

"The slaying occurred.

"The next time anybody saw the body of Dr. Littlefield that—(slapping a picture down before the jury)—is how it looked. The next time anybody saw the head—(another picture)—that is how it looked.

"Did that Dwyer boy do that? If he did, it was because he was told to do that or die. That boy couldn't be held to do a rational thing with that deputy sheriff hanging over him.

"Always evident in this case has been the entire absence of any malice on the part of that boy toward Dr. Littlefield.

"What defense did Paul Dwyer have? The eyes of that man on this boy, as Paul pleaded. A deputy sheriff standing there just behind him! What defense did that poor boy have? He was bereft of help and of friends!

NO DENIAL BY CARROLL

"Carroll himself said Dwyer had always been a good boy. When did he turn so suddenly?

"Well, they investigated Dwyer's house. And there on the ground they found a cigarette lighter which could have been, and that I tell you was, Carroll's.

"The fact that Carroll left the Legion supper—that he has not accounted to you for one moment of his time that night from 7:30 to 9:30—give credit to everything he said that you believe—but remember that at no time

Ship Contract Means 5000 Quincy Jobs

Employment for 5000 Quincy marine workers for the next 21 months was assured today at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation Fore River plant with the signing of a contract for construction of four $2,559,000 cargo vessels for the American Export Lines, Inc.

Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, declared the contract was the first to be executed by a privately-owned American-flag shipping company in compliance with permanent subsidy agreements under the 1936 Merchant Marine Act.

The contract was signed at Washington by Admiral Land, J. E. Slater, vice-president of the American Export Lines, and S. W. Wakeman, vice-president of Bethlehem.

The American Export Line operates between North Atlantic ports and Mediterranean and Black Sea ports with a fleet of 24 ships.

The four new vessels, the first of ten to be built by the line in the next five years, will be 475 feet long, with a displacement of 14,450 tons, a cruising radius of 15,000 miles and a speed of 16½ knots.

George Raft Balks At Role, Suspended

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12 (AP)—Paramount studio suspended George Raft from its contract list today, charging he refused to report for work in the picture "St. Louis Blues."

Adolph Zukor, chairman of the studio's board of directors, said he had been notified by Myron Selznick & Co., Raft's agent, that the movie star would not accept the leading role unless his option was renewed. The option, Selznick stated, was not due to be renewed until December 12.

Circus Horses Back to Farm

LOWELL, Aug. 12—Done forever with circus lot toil and circus parade strutting, 186 former Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey horses, sold at auction here, were on their way to more prosaic work today.

These sturdy roans, bays, grays and sorrels weren't performing horses but "baggage stock" during their circus careers.

They hauled the big circus wagons from the railroad siding to the lot, then, decked out in cockades and red and gilt ornaments, they pranced ponderously in small town parades, keeping time to the strident strains of the calliope.

Hard times hit the big Ringling show this season, however. Circus owners generally became converted to mechanized methods of baggage hauling.

Like the fire horse and the artillery horse, the circus horse found himself out of a job.

Buyers were dealers, too. They bid in the circus animals in job lots, for shipment to farms and trucking companies from Montreal to Baltimore. Average price, per horse, was about $150.

Catholic Action Summer School at B. C.

The annual Summer School of Catholic Action, conducted by a faculty of Jesuit specialists, will be held at Boston College next week. Courses will begin Monday and end Saturday.

The faculty will arrive at Boston College after completing similar sessions in Washington and New Orleans. Sessions will also be held in Chicago, Aug. 22-27, and St. Paul, Aug. 29-Sept. 3. More than 1000 attended the Boston session last year.

The summer school is in line with Pope Pius XI's plea for Catholic Action. By giving courses which range from economics and literature to a study of the Mass and sacred liturgy, the faculty strives to show the Catholic his position in the world today.

Other Jesuits on the faculty are the Rev. George A. McDonald, authority on co-operatives; the Rev. Edward Dowling, authority on Catholic political problems; the Rev. Herbert O. H. Walker, literary critic; the Rev. Aloysius J. Heeg, specialist on the teaching of religion; the Rev. Martin Carrabine and the Rev. Francis Degiman, experts on students' trends; the Rev. Gerald Ellard, liturgical authority; the Rev. Francis P. LeBuffe, business manager of "America" and "Thought"; Samuel H. Ray, moderator of the New Orleans Students' Union; and E. J. Weisenberg, professor of dogmatic and patristic theology.

Laymen on the faculty include William T. Mulloy, former president tof the Catholic Rural Life Association; George Nell, founder and director of the Co-op Parish Activities service; Dorothy J. Willman, authority on parish organization; and Marian Prendergast, executive secretary for the Summer Schools of Catholic Action.

Repairs Halt Nazi Plane

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Minor damage to the propeller and an engine cowling of the 19-ton German plane Brandenburg delayed today the start iof the huge ship's homeward flight across the Atlantic ocean.

A quick turn-around trip had been planned but this idea was dropped soon after the four-man crew brought the 24-passenger transport skimming into Floyd Bennett field yesterday at the end of a record-breaking trip from Berlin.

It was the first west-east linking of Berlin and New York, and the 3942 miles were covered in 24 hours, 54 minutes.

Spouting oil betrayed the damage as the plane rolled to a stop. Alfred Henke, blond and taciturn captain of the Brandenburg's crew, said the damage was trivial and that, if necessary, the plane could have started home immediately. But there was no rush and New York ha shown them such a "splendid welcome," he said, that the fliers wanted to stay "a day or two."

Kelly Claims Curley 'In Act'

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Former Governor James M. Curley's candidacy for governor today was labelled "an act" for the Democratic nomination of Governor Hurley and eventual victory for the Republican nominee in November.

The charged was hurled by Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly, who seeks promotion to the governor's chair over the opposition of the present chief executive, the former governor and former Congressman Richard M. Russell of Cambridge.

Curley, on the other hand, hurled the well known Curley barbs at his youthful rival in a series of rallies that included Lynn, Boston's North End and South Boston.

FLYING START

As forecast in yesterday's Boston Evening American, the Curley-Kelly feud got away to a flying start in rallies that lasted into early today.

Kelly named Curley, Hurley and Leverett Saltonstall, who seems to have the pole for the Republican nomination, as "the three well known wealthy who are parties to a 'Stop Kelly Deal.'"

He charged that the power interests were behind the deal and pointed out that a billboard firm which bears the name of Curley's son-in-law was instructed to give space to both Hurley and Saltonstall.

He branded the former governor as a man who is "all done" in politics and pointed to Attorney-General Paul A. Dever, State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley and Congressman Joseph E. Casey as possible candidates for governor whom Saltonstall backers dared not approach to enter the contest and hurt his chances for nomination.

CURLEY'S BLAST

While the youthful lieutenant-governor was delivering his blast on the radio and before a meeting of workers in Hibernian Hall, Roxbury, Curley worked his listeners into applause by equally vitriolic charges aimed at Kelly, Hurley and Saltonstall.

The Hurley regime, he said, has resulted in a party divided, and he scored the governor for alleged failure to remedy conditions in state mental institutions.

He challenged Kelly to produce "one constructive law on the statute books that bears his name," and claimed that in his one term as governor he had reduced power costs throughout the state by $12,000,000.

Much of the Curley speeches, however, were centered on the Hurley regime.

"STILL FRIENDS"

In spite of the Curley blasts on Hurley and Saltonstall, Kelly insisted that Curley and Hurley were still friends and pointed to the retention of several Curley appointees in key state posts as proof of his statements.

Two to whom he referred were William F. Callahan, commissioner of public works and Frank Kane, associate commissioner.

Tonight Curley is scheduled to speak in Lawrence, Haverhill and several other cities in Essex County. The Kelly forces are due for a moonlight sail on the S. S. Steel Pier with their candidate as their guest.

President Pushes Purge

By GEORGE DURNO

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—President Roosevelt was back at his desk today after more than a month's absence in which he traveled more than 14,000 miles on pleasure and politics.

The President's special train pulled int othe capital at 11:25 a. m., EDT. Four members of the cabinet—Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of Commerce Roper, Secretary of War Woodring and Secretary of Labor Perkins—were on hand to greet him along with General Malin Craig, chief of staff of the U. S. army.

The President went directly to the White House where a pile of work awaited him.

In Georgia, which he calls his "other home state," the President made a spectacular and unprecedented last-minute bid for unquestioned control of the machinery of the Democratic party.

The tour of the President—which began a month and five days ago, and combined campaigning with fishing in tropical waters—came to a smashing climax as he called upon Southern voters to defeat two veteran Democratic senators, Walter F. George of Georgia and "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina.

DEMANDS GEORGE DEFEAT

Demand for George's political life blood was startlingly unequivocal. The thrust at Smith was momentarily more indirect, but nevertheless unmistakable to a huge midnight station throng at Greenville, S. C.

Since the President traversed the continent in a hectic nine-day jaunt before boarding a navy cruiser, speculation has been rife about 1940 and the possibility he would be a third-term candidate.

No one knows the answer today.

It appeared, however, that Roosevelt was moving definitely to secure control his party machinery that 1940 would be a surety for either himself or his designated successor.

ASKED RE-ELECTION

Moving westward last month, the President called for the re-election of Senators Barkley, of Kentucky; Bulkley, of Ohio; Thomas, of Oklahoma; Caraway, of Arkansas, and McAdoo, of California. McAdoo's primary contest is still coming up. The other four have all successfully surmounted the all-important initial hurdle.

In his "other state" of Georgia, however, Roosevelt reversed the order and called upon a large and sweltering crowd to defeat Senator George and send the nationally unknown U. S. Attorney Lawrence Camp to Washington in his stead.

"Farley for President" If Roosevelt Gives OK

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., Aug. 12 (INS) — Postmaster-General James A. Farley will run for President in 1940 only if he is the personal choice of President Roosevelt.

The Democratic national committee chairman today made that point clear to Michigan's Democrats as they ended their two-day rally.

KILLED IN BARN FALL

HARDWICK, Aug. 12—Medical Examiner Charles A. Deland today declared that death came instantaneous to George S. Prouty, 67-year-old farmer, who broke his neck in an eight-foot fall from a load of hay to his barn floor.

Probe $200,000 Vermont Fire

BARTON, Vt., Aug. 12 (AP)—Inspectors of the Vermont fire marshal's office poked through ruins of three business blocks and two houses today in an effort to determine what exploded an empty 1000-gallon gasoline tank in a garage here and started a $200,000 fire.

Officials said the loss was the largest ever recorded in this town, 20 miles from the Canadian border, with a population of 3500.

The fire destroyed 45 automobiles and trucks in the three-story Webster motor sales garage and storage room, jumped across the street to the Webster feed store, then to the three-story Chutter block.

Ox Heart Yields 'Cure' For Cancer in Animals

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—Apparent curt of cancer in experimental animals by the injection of a special muscle preparation was announced here today, in a statement from Buenos Aires, by Prof. A. H. Roffo.

The preparation, called "hydrolysate of ox heart," was made by treating ox heart muscle tissues with hydrochloric acid.

Dr. Roffo, at the Institute for Experimental Medicine, Buenos Aires, gave injections of this material to several hundred rats who had fatal forms of cancer tumors, induced by transplantation.

One of the cancers was of the breast, "adenocarcinoma of the breast," the other type is known as spindle sarcoma. The strain of the rats used was known by tests on 28 generations to be extremely susceptible to these forms of cancers. Once stricken with such disease, the animals invariably died.

The results of about two weeks of treatment were that in a very large number of the rats, the cancers "regressed," that is disappeared. No trace of cancer was left in many animals.

Social Security Act Running Big Deficit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) — The first three years of the Social Security Act cost the federal treasury $1,222,[illegible] and brought in $882,[illegible] of revenue.

Roswell Magill, acting secretary of the treasury, made public today the statistics involved in operation of the law.

Federal expenditures for the gigantic pension system have included $504,204,188 for grants to the states, $680,000,000 for investments in the old age reserve fund, and about $38,000,000 for administration of the law.

Revenue fell far behind expenditures because amounts nearly equal to the receipts are permanently earmarked for the old age reserve fund leaving the state grants to be financed out of ordinary treasury funds.

The controversial old age reserve fund scheduled to reach $47,000,000,000 in 1980 was valued by the Treasury at $1,136,463,498, but its actual investments, including reinvestment of interest receipts amount to only $700,000,000. The difference is an appropriation credit for which the actual cash will not be received by the fund until the old age taxes [illegible]

German Unrest Nears Revolt

LONDON, Aug. 12 (INS)—Under prominent headlines, the Daily Express today declared Nazi Germany is in a state of unrest "developing into open revolt" because of war fears and a severe industrial slump.

The Nazi regime is struggling with a tremendous flight of German capital, "Aryan as well as non Aryan owned, and a rush by rich industrialists to smuggle their money out of the country, according to the Express.

Even Nazi officials have secretly joined in the smuggling attempts. The newspaper said the flight of gold from Germany is the secret behind the recent acute weakness of the Berlin Bourse.

Europe Facing 30-Day Crisis

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Secretary Roper disclosed today a conviction of high-placed English friends that Europe will pass through the crisis of war threats in the next 30 days.

Roper, who returned this week from a months visit in Great Britain said in an interview

"People with whom I talked said that if they could get through the next month without war, there would be no general European war for at least a year and probably for years to come."

Japan Pushes Bombing War as Red Peril Eases

By Associated Press

During Japanese air attacks caused heavy damage and casualties today in two areas deep in the heart of China.

Terrorism gripped Shanghai, Japanese and Russian armies observed an armed truce on the Siberian-Manchoukuoan frontier and Insurgents hammered government positions in western Spain.

Oil tanks believed to belong to U. S. oil companies were set afire near Hankow, China's provisional capital, by Jap air raids.

NEW AERIAL DRIVE

In Kwangsi province, farther south, Japanese warplanes heavily bombed Wuchow, a river port 129 miles west of Canton, continuing to fulfill Tuesday's threat of 10 consecutive days of attacks.

The forays today, in which heavy casualties were feared, were seen as a sign Japan intends to broaden her aerial warfare in southern China.

Shanghai awaited with dread the anniversary tomorrow of the outbreak of Chinese-Japanese fighting [illegible].

With quiet restored on the Siberian Manchoukuoan frontier by an armistice, Tokio newspapers reflected anxiety whether a final peace had been achieved by Soviet Russia and Japan in the Far East.

FRANCO ATTACKS

In Spain Insurgent Generalissimo Franco's forces on the western front drove rapidly toward valuable government mercury mines.

General Franco was reported facing difficulties with both France and Britain as a result of delay in removal of foreign troops from Spain.

guarantee to continue to pay for the 7-year-old Gerald's board and keep if he were permitted to join his parents in New Brunswick.

The Gardner mayor's generous and humane suggestion was promptly relayed by the Boston Evening American to the United States and Canadian immigration officials.

Mary Ward, U. S. immigration commissioner at Boston, said at once she was sure Washington, D. C. would give its heartfelt blessing to such an arrangement.

"Our department delayed as long as it could and did all that it could to avoid separating the Richard family," she explained.

AWAIT CANADA'S MOVE

"Canadian law, not our law, kept little Gerald from accompanying his parents.

"If the boy's support in Canada can be guaranteed by the city of Gardner I think that will be agreeable to New Brunswick welfare authorities.

"But the whole thing, of course, is definitely up to Canada."

A somewhat similar view of the situation was taken by W. E. Lackhardt, Canadian immigration superintendent at Boston.

He said:

"It's a matter our headquarters at Ottawa would have to rule on. But as I understand it, the little Richard boy, born in the United States and an American citizen, was refused admission to Canada as likely to become a public charge.

"If Gardner or some other American community will pay for the boy's support in Canada, the situation will be changed."

The father and mother and Gerald's Canadian-born sister, Rosella, were on their sad way to St. John, N. B., today, aboard the Eastern Steamship liner Yarmouth.

PARENTS PENNILESS

And little Gerald, himself, bewildered and frightened by the strange workings of Uncle Sam's laws, was a forlorn inmate of the city infirmary at Gardner.

He found a friend and sympathizer, however, in Mayor Perry Sand the mayor:

"I've got five kids of my own, and it would take the whole U. S. army and the British navy to make a 'legal orphan' out of any one of them.

"I'm going to help this Richard boy.

"As I understand it, Canadian immigration authorities won't let him join his parents in New Brunswick because the parents can't support him.

TO SUPPLY FUNDS

"The father and mother and sister are New Brunswick citizens, so New Brunswick has got to take care of them.

"But little Gerald was born here, and Canada says it's up to us to take care of him.

"Okay, we'll do it. But we'll go further than that. We'll guarantee to pay for his support in Canada and let him live with his parents there on a Gardner welfare allowance.

"There'll probably be a lot of technical objections to such an arrangement, but I'll go to Washington and even to the White House, if necessary, to straighten the matter out.

"Congressman Joe Casey of this district is going to help me.

"Meantime, we'll see that little Gerald gets good care at the infirmary here. It's really a farm, you know. We'll get the kid fattened up and husky.

"Later, perhaps, we'll put him in the Grey Nuns orphanage at Worcester, until the U. S.-Canadian red tape is untangled."

LOST WPA JOB

According to Gardner city records the Richards came there in 1920 from Woodland, Me. went to Canada about 10 years ago and later returned. It was presumably during the period in Canada that he was born.

Gardner records also show Richard lost a WPA job when it was discovered he had left Canadian ship

ALLSTON MAN HELD

A 46-year-old Allston man was held today following investigation of the complaints of several children living on Lincoln street, Brighton. Police said the man had approached young girls and offered them money to accompany him.

'Old Swimming Holes' Foul With Sewage

(This is the sixth article in a series based on a survey made by the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser as a public duty.)

Swimming places other than authorized bathing beaches are badly polluted by Boston sewage, the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser were told today by Arthur D. Weston, chief sanitary engineer of the State Board of Health.

One of these bodies of water, Weston said, is the Fort Point Channel, which runs in under the Congress and Summer streets bridges, ranges along behind the South Station and gropes up into the South End.

The state sanitary engineer made a personal survey of the channel as well as many bathing beaches as a result of the Skinner & Sherman analyses of water specimens taken at the beaches for these newspapers.

The analysis of water taken at [illegible] beaches showed bacteria counts as high as 8,200 units per [illegible] cubic centimeters of water, although anything over 1000 is considered dangerous.

COMMISSION NAMED

The investigation by these newspapers and the startling results of the analyses hastened yesterday appointment of the full complement of members of the sewage recess commission, authorized by the Legislature to conduct a probe into sewage pollution of Greater Boston bathing beaches.

"I usually I do not appoint recess commissions until after the Legislature has prorogued," Speaker Horace T. Cahill said, "but the urgency of the pollution problem demanded speedy action so that out beaches may be made safe."

According to State Health Commissioner Weston the Fort Point channel is the most polluted of any in Boston Harbor.

This is due, he said, to the fact that raw sewage is being emptied into the channel somewhere near the pumping station at Atlantic and Union Park streets, South End.

HUNDREDS SWIM THERE

Despite this fact, there are hundreds of men and boys swimming in the channel nearly every day.

"I passed that point the other day," said Weston, "and saw them diving from piers into this polluted water."

Officials of the Boston Sewer Department corroborated Weston and said that [illegible] of heavy rainfall the [illegible] pumping [illegible] the harbor [illegible].

Usually the sewage is pumped [illegible] Times a week.

The [illegible] sewage [illegible] as high as 10 per cent of solids and most of it comes from homes in the South End [illegible].

All of [illegible] pumped [illegible] into the Charles at that point, but there are at least 25 sewer outfalls in Boston which empty raw sewage into Boston Harbor and also the Charles River, many of these overflows being located near bathing beaches.

Full [illegible] of the federal [illegible] [illegible] recommended construction of three plants to treat the 250,000,000 gallons of raw sewage pumped into Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay daily was promised today by Philip B. Craighead, federal WPA engineer.

U. S. WOULD HELP

"We'll jump at that, it's right down our alley," said Craighead when asked whether the federal government would be willing to appropriate money.

"If the special legislative commission just appointed acts quickly, the federal government will be glad to appropriate 45 per cent of the cost of the proposed treatment plants.

"All that is necessary is that plans be prepared and the Legislature and City of Boston put up 55 per cent of the cost before September 30. It will be necessary that the work be started before January 1 next, but the turning of a few shovels of earth in the middle of December will cover that.

"The city of Holyoke has been allotted $1,500,000 by the federal government for a sewage treatment plant. Springfield has been allotted $2,000,000 for the same purpose and Northampton has been given $1,250,000. Weymouth has been allotted $500,000 and Scituate $250,000.

"If the cities and towns can do it, the state of Massachusetts and the city of Boston can do it. There is no question in my mind but that such plants should be constructed to take care of the sewage which empties into Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

"Mayor Tobin recently made application for a $50,000 sewer replacement at Central wharf.

"The federal government has authorized a grant of $2,025,000 for extension of the North Metropolitan relief sewer from Medford to Deer Island. The total cost of the project will be $4,[illegible]

[illegible] Sewerage Board [illegible] Metropolitan District Water Supply Commission said:

"While the federal government has authorized a federal grant of $2,025,000, for extension of the North Metropolitan relief sewer from Medford to Deer Island and for treatment works, from the information and estimates our board now have it is very doubtful if there will be sufficient money left after the laying of the pipes from Medford to Deer Island, to erect a sewage treatment plant. We may not have quite enough to lay the pipes to Deer Island."

(Tomorrow's Boston Evening American will be published another in this series of articles.)

Boston After Dark

By HENRY L. DAILY

Now, 40,000 votes may not mean much to some people, but a smaller figure has won State elections in the past.

HENRY L. DAILY

So, the 40,000 young men and women in the State who took examinations early in June for the 200 positions in the department of Unemployment Compensation Commission, are beginning to wonder when said appointments are to be announced.

It looks like a safe bet that nothing will be done about making public the names of the successful candidates until after the State primaries next month and then, again, they may not be known until after election day next November, or they may never be known.

Why? The answer is a simple one. There are at present about 100 of these positions, held at the office of the UCC by loyal workers of the administration in control under the Golden Dome on Beacon Hill. They are classified as "Provisional Permanent Positions."

We find in the book of rules of the Civil Service Commission, inserted there in 1914, Rule 21—Sec. 6, which reads as follows:—

"Any provisional permanent appointee who has served for six months or more in any department may, upon request of appointing officer, be certified for permanent employment; providing that he passes the next examination held for the position."

By keeping the list of those who passed held up as long as possible, it is obvious that those now drawing state salaries will be kept on as permanent employees and the past examination, which swamped any yet held by the State, will have gone with the wind.

For one position alone, that of examiner of claims, 28,000 persons took the examination. There were 12,000 applicants for three other designations.

To juggle 40,000 votes on the eve of primary day, is worthy of the skill of an ambidextrous artist. However, perhaps Governor Hurley may find a way out.

Here and There—

If Mayor Tobin happens to read this, it will not be necessary for Sheldon H. Fairbanks, general manager of the current meeting at Wonderland Park to try to reach him on the 'phone . . . Only one lane of the East Boston tunnel was open last Friday night, and, as Friday is the biggest night of the week at the track, General Manager Fairbanks is hoping that tonight's traffic won't be slowed because of unnecessary . . . If the rules would permit, Sheldon would probably put on an extra race at both ends of the tunnel tonight which is Ladies' Night . . .

Captain Joseph McKinnon of the Athens street station, South Boston, is enjoying a vacation down East. Lieut. George Mahoney is in charge of the division during his absence—Emmett Kelly of Orient Heights, East Boston, has announced his candidacy for the House from Ward 1 . . . Hugh Logue, legislative agent for the Municipal Clerks Association—Charles P. O'Neil, "Mayor of Codman Square," Dorchester, will retire soon, after many years' service with the Boston Consolidated Gas Company—Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Rossetti of Medford, are vacationing in Italy. They first went to the homeland in 26 years to see the old folks . . . A delegation of native Irish members of the Central Council of Irish County Associations of Greater Boston, will petition Gov. Hurley for the appointment of former State Senator Joseph P. Finnegan to a seat on the bench . . . John Joseph Cheever of Dorchester, is a candidate for the Governor's Council in the 2nd Councillor district, to succeed Joseph F. Grossman—Chief Court Officer Frederick Peabody of Middlesex Courthouse will be pleased to know that the fenders of his automobile are in no danger of being crippled, for the "island" in front of the court buildings has been moved to a point in a nearby grass plot . . . It is said he never missed a day without hitting the "island."

Guess Who—

In the old political days, those close to the power that controlled City Hall, used to say, "Hizzoner would be very pleased to see Mr. So and So elected."

Times haven't changed a great deal. Today, word is being passed along the line that the nomination of President John E. Kerrigan, of the City Council, as next state senator from the South Boston-Roxbury district would be mighty pleasing, as would the nomination of William J. Foley for district attorney, to succeed himself on Pemberton Hill. I'll let you guess who started this one.

John Roosevelt closed the deal whereby he is to accept a position with a large downtown department store, via long distance telephone from Hermosa Prevous to this he turned down two offers of positions with advertising concerns, either of which would have paid him $10,000 a year.

'Guilty' Begs State

has he said here that he did not kill Dr. Littlefield

"They found a hammer head in the car.

"There has been some talk that this was the hammer that killed Dr. Littlefield.

'FRANCIS CARROLL'S GUN'

"Well, we believed that story way back in 1937. Now you try to fit it on the head, no matter how you try, it won't fit. You want to know what killed Dr. Littlefield? Francis Carroll's gun!

You want to know what made that wound on Dr. Littlefield's head? This gun of Francis Carroll's!

"How does it happen otherwise that the diamond shape marking of the wound on Dr. Littlefield's head so precisely fits the diamond markings on the butt of Francis Carroll's gun?

"The story is fantastic. The whole thing is fantastic! You wouldn't think that Mrs. Littlefield would have gotten into that car and gone with Dwyer, but she did

"Wouldn't you think a man who would slay the man who knew of his incest would slay his widow when she learned of this murder?

"There is nothing fantastic about that!

"The conferences, the talks, Barbara's letters, the incest, everything—the marks of Carroll's gun on the dead man's head—

"My brother is going to ask you on that evidence to let Francis Carroll free to walk the streets. That's what my brother is going to do

SAYS CASE COMPLETE

"Barbara had a mother and father. Paul Dwyer no father. A dangerous boy to lead around.

4 Possible Verdicts in Carroll Case

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 11—If the jury in the Carroll murder trial reaches an agreement on its verdict, four decisions under the Maine law are possible. It can:

1—Find Francis M. Carroll not guilty.

2—Bring in a verdict of guilty of murder.

3—Find the defendant guilty of manslaughter.

The fourth verdict is seldom returned against a murder defendant, but it is possible under the Maine statutes.

"The state has given you enough to satisfy any jury in the world but you can't let Francis Carroll out of this and return to your own firesides with the same sense of safety you, as American citizens, are entitled to enjoy. The incongruity and unbelievability of this defense is amazing.

"The father of five children, Carroll from the time this boy was brought back from New Jersey and thereafter should have increasingly despised this boy. He gets a note. What would you or I have done? You wouldn't have gone down to state's prison. You wouldn't have gotten there an hour and a half after Dwyer arrived.

"This boy had had relations with his daughter and he knew it. What was it that took Francis Carroll down there except some hidden secret word?

"Why, if it had been my daughter, I'd have killed him!

"He tells you he wanted to help him!

"This is a murder trial—one of the most serious cases in the United States; not a circus performance. That boy you saw yesterday was wiry, unusually strong.

"You couldn't remember how that boy lifted that man now yourself.

"I showed you a boy strained, puny, with no physique, stubborn of character but weak physically.

NIGHT OF OCT. 13

"Well, the second time that Carroll went down to the state's prison he still went down to help the boy.

"The night of October 13! The sheriff has told you Carroll was not in his office that night until he arrested Farnum.

"At any rate he goes back to the state's prison and sees Dwyer again and Dwyer tells him he is going to put him where he belongs."

"He went down there to help the boy who had told of his diabolical relations with his daughter. When he knew it! To help him! Any reasonable man would have killed him, not helped him!

CARROLL'S "HELP"

"No man can do the thing that has been done here and not leave his tracks, and here are the tracks—certain, final, inescapable.

"Carroll says he went down there to help this boy. I don't know anything he's done to help him.

"What was he doing on Paris Hill? My brother goes into the killing of Mrs. Littlefield. All right. Shouldn't he have said he didn't do it? He had plenty of chance here to say that—but he didn't.

"My brother dragged Mrs. Littlefield's murder into this case, I didn't. So far as I am concerned, this man is on trial here for the murder of Dr. Littlefield. Perhaps my brother didn't know how much the state knew of the murder of Mrs. Littlefield.

"What happened?

STORY OF RIDE

"You have the story of Paul and Mrs. Littlefield and their trip to Concord and their return, and Mrs. Littlefield learns the truth.

"And she says, 'You come with me to Carroll. I am going to see him.'

SCREAM IN NIGHT

"And I produced a woman here who heard a terrible scream right up by the Carroll home

"Of course, it is? No body in the United State has read of this crime wonders thinking it fantastic. But we have the woman who heard the scream and the woman who saw Paul with the body of Mrs. Littlefield beside him in the doctor's car 'dead or drunk.'

"The next witnesses didn't see her—because Paul had moved the body into the back of the car.

"Dwyer told you he knows Carroll struck Dr. Littlefield with his gun. Here is the gun and here is a photograph of the mark left by the blow.

TELLS OF THREATS

"The boy has told different stories. And he has told you why. You have been told of Carroll's threats against him in his cell and in this very court-

"Paul told Abbott, his attorney, the truth. And then changed his story because of Carroll's threats.

"My brother will tell you Dwyer 'picked on' Carroll to blame him because of animosity he felt toward him. Who could Paul believe have picked out? Whose gun fitted the wound in the doctor's head? Who was seen at the Dwyer home? Who was on Turkey Hill?

"It seals his doom it ends his prospects, it places him in the Dwyer home, in the bathroom of that home where this brutal murder was perpetrated

"You have the story of the Boston reporters who met Carroll in Reading and wanted Barbara's picture. And he says he didn't know about the murder—he'd been around Boston all day and he never even heard the newsboys yelling, never saw the newspaper headlines

'WE'RE NOT SAFE'

"And he never calls up to find out if he can do anything—he, the active deputy sheriff!

"I importune you from the bottom of my heart when you leave your jury room, leave it right.

"Now, you can say he is guilty—the state has left no outlet there. You can't say there isn't enough evidence now.

"Paul Dwyer? I showed you a weakling

"He showed you a strong rugged kid

"And I didn't exploit Paul Dwyer. I didn't put him on as a show.

"I'm dealing with an atrocious murder, carrying with it another atrocity.

"Our wives and children are not safe, our beds are fraught with danger by one who could come and pound us into oblivion.

"No judgment of Solomon is due here, but hardheaded, sober second thought. I'm not arguing the cause of Paul Dwyer. I'm holding no brief for his conduct. But that is no occasion for letting out the man who did commit this crime.

SAY HE'S GUILTY!'

"Paul knows I never held anything out to him.

"Take this man out of circulation. Come back and say Carroll is guilty of murder.

"Then you can go back to your homes with the sense of duty well done. You will have added to the glory and fineness of the state, and have removed a blot from its escutcheon.

"You will have assured citizens the safety that our government promises.

SECRET FINALLY OUT!'

"I am leaving it with you. I know you won't forget the date, October 13th, and that horrible struggle in Dwyer's house where poor Dr. Littlefield's life was taken.

"Inescapable evidence of guilt marks every turn of this case. The secret is finally out. The truth has come into its own.

"We've given you everything That can't be said of the defense

"Don't decide between Dwyer and Carroll, but between society, law-abiding citizens, law-abiding, honest persons and Francis Carroll. We don't want things like this happening.

"Be fearless. If he's guilty I know you'll say so—if not guilty I know you'll be just as brave.

"Let no outside persuasions prevail. Let your common sense raise a flag above this courthouse, and let your signal be one of notice that this is not a place of safety to criminals, but a place of safety to the innocent."

And [illegible] heard to the judge [illegible]

In his opening statement before counsel, Mr. O'Brien said in part:

"There has never been a case like this before. I say to you that when you charge a man with murder and then before you arrest him for the murder, charge him with the crime of incest, it is a most ungodly act.

"This case has been built up most ingeniously for the purpost of convicting Francis Carroll.

"When it is argued that the killing of Dr and Mrs Littlefield was brutal, I most heartedly concur. We all regret the passing of those two loveable people. But that does not convict Francis Carroll.

"It is the state's duty to show Carroll's guilt, if it can, beyond a reasonable doubt. Carroll is entitled to that reasonable doubt.

"What has the state shown? We have a cigarette lighter that no one has said was Carroll's. We have the testimony of a girl, Hazel Talbot, who saw Francis Carroll, she says, sitting in a car.

RIDICULES DWYER

"Let's take Paul Dwyer's story. He takes the stand and tells about an intimacy with Barbara Carroll, the woman he loves, this champion of Mrs. Littlefield—this champion of the people.

"He takes the name of this girl he says he loves and drags it in shame and ruins her reputation.

"He tells you of conversations with Francis Carroll. The State tells you that what Dwyer says these conversations consisted of must be true because some people saw Dwyer talking to Caroll. The weight of that argument illustrates very well the weight of the State's entire case against Francis Carroll.

"Paul Dwyer tells of chasing after the doctor to get him to go up on the hill. The State has brought that out as a great piece of evidence.

"Well, has anyone ever said that was not not true.

DWYER MADE TO FAST?

"The state brings up the extortion note. But who introduced the extortion note into this case, the state or the defense? You saw the efforts of the state to suppress the testimony on the witness stand of George R. Morton, the man who was threatened in that extortion note.

"The state produces Paul Dwyer on this witness stand a living skeleton after an undoubted period of fasting to prepare for that appearance.

"Paul has told you his story of the arrangement he says was made to bring Barbara, the girl he tells you he always loved and still loves, up to the house for a doctor's examination.

"This whole case is founded on insinuation and innuendo. They ask you to believe all this.

Paul tells you he called in Dr. Littlefield because he didn't believe Carroll was going to bring a doctor to the house. His insinuation is he expected Carroll to come there to threaten him in an effort to get the letters from him.

"But now he tells you he brought Dr. Littlefield to the house and that a few minutes later came Carroll mischief-bent.

"LIE DID NOT KILL"

"Does that make sense? In comes Carroll, as Dwyer says he expected, to threaten him—and the doctor's car is parked at the curb outside the house. Does it sound reasonable to you that, if Carroll's purpose was what Dwyer says it was, that would have occurred? Or would Carroll, intending to threaten Dwyer, not have turned away to come back later when Dwyer was alone?

"Dwyer says, 'I told a lie.' But a lie did not kill Dr. Littlefield. A lie did lure Mrs. Littlefield to her death.

"Dwyer told you that he came back here from Hebron the afternoon of the murder to get his suitcase, which was already packed—that he was going back to Hebron. But his old grandmother told you here that he had to come to Hebron that afternoon to tell her goodby. That he was going away.

"HIS STORY FANTASTIC"

"This boy's fantastic story weakens at its vital points—this boy who had been reading detective story magazines that poisoned his mind.

"Paul Dwyer says he went to the doctor's home but the doctor was too busy to see him, and that he waited, and we have the story of the witnesses who saw Paul run after the doctor later that evening when the doctor pulled out of the house in his car.

"Yet what did really happen? I submit this to you. Paul says he sat there in the doctor's home while the doctor attended patients and then went away to wait for him. But in the doctor's appointment book we find the notation for that day, 'Jessie Dwyer, Paris Hill.'

"Paul would have you believe that he told the doctor his grandmother was ill only when he hailed the doctor in his car. The inference is obvious—that Paul's story is false and that the engagement for the doctor to come to Paul's house was made much earlier, else why would the doctor have it in his engagement book?

MENTAL POISON"

"The killing of Dr. Littlefield was not on the spur of the moment but led from the mental poison of reading detective stories about a perfect crime.

"My brother has said something about the hammer head in this case, the haft. That is not the hammer that killed Dr. Littlefield. Well, I never said that it was. These are not my exhibits. These are the state's exhibits in the Dwyer case.

DWYER'S HAMMER"

"I don't know whether Dr Littlefield was struck on the head with a hammer. It isn't our concern at all. It certainly isn't Carroll's hammer. I don't think even the state has said that.

"Following Dwyer's story of the murder it's always Dwyer—Dwyer's hammer, Dwyer's wrench, Dwyer's belt, Dwyer's blanket.

"But the state would have you believe that Carroll did it all.

"The state has told you that when they, Carroll and Dwyer, carried the doctor's body in the blanket downstairs they came to a door. And here, according to the State's testimony, this boy of whose physical weakness they have made such a point—holds his end of the blanket, half the doctor's weight, with one hand. While he opens the door with the other. It is too absurd!

'SEPARATED LETTERS'

"Dwyer would have you believe, and of course Mr. Dwyer wouldn't lie! That after seeing Carroll kill Dr. Littlefield Carroll threatened him unless he turned over 'the letters.'

"And now, gentlemen, this boy would have you believe that having witnessed this diabolical murder and being scared to death, he nevertheless, with Carroll there watching him, retained presence of mind enough to separate the letters Carroll really wanted from the others and retain them himself.

"Yet in the next breath he tells you how confused his mind was and that he was incapable.

"He tells you of going for Mrs. Littlefield. He lied to Mrs. Littlefield. He lied to the doctor and now he lied to Mrs. Littlefield. Just what he told her when he went down to her the house I don't know. But, gentlemen, you must have some reasonable doubt of the truth of Paul Dwyer's stories.

DWYER'S HUNGER

"At any rate, they go to Concord, N. H., and there, with the dead body of the doctor in the car, after having seen the doctor killed, what happens? This boy is hungry! He eats a western sandwich and drinks a cup of coffee. Is this the action of a boy scared to death of Francis

Carroll and horrified by what he has witnessed?

"He talks to a policeman even, and this policeman, a man trained in observation, tells you he betrayed no perturbation and appeared only tired.

TOLD DOCTOR'S WIDOW

"In Concord, I don't know what happened. You don't know. No one knows. Oh, yes, I believe Dwyer did say he told Mrs. Littlefield down in New Hampshire that Carroll had killed her husband.

"Well, anyway, they come back to South Paris. Mrs Littlefield wants to see Carroll, the man who killed her husband. They arrive in front of Carroll's house around midnight And now, says Dwyer – remember, his whole purpose in going for Mrs Littlefield was to protect her—now, this little boy, to protect her, takes her to the Carroll house at midnight. They park their car nearby.

"Carroll's car is in front of the house. Carroll presumably is inside of the house. Dwyer says they waited. How long did they wait? How long did they sit there—at midnight?

"ALL A BUILD-UP"

"What ever would lead them to expect that Carroll at that hour would be out? It is all too impossible All a build-up of crafty inuendo.

"You have had the testimony of a woman's scream being heard. But was it Mrs. Littlefield's? No one has said it was. You have had the testimony of the witness who says he saw a car parked off the road.

"I have no doubt he did. I have no doubt you could go up there tonight and find a car parked off the road.

"And then the story of the murder of Mrs. Littlefield with Dwyer's belt.

"Dwyer's belt, again. Dwyer's again.

"You have the statement on ther other hand of the North Arlington, N. J., police officers. What was Dwyer's story to them" They tell you he told them, when they found the bodies in his car, 'I didn't kill them, I'm a hitchhiker.'

DWYER'S FEAR FOR LIFE

"The New Jersey police told you that when Dwyer was informed he was to be brought back here by plane he said, 'I hope Carroll isn't coming after me, put me out of the plane.'

"Well, I should think he would be afraid of that- this boy with Barbara's letters found in his possession revealing his intimacies with her—letters that undoubtedly he had held back when he and she returned their letters to each other

"You gentlemen believe the testimony of the prosecutor of Cumberland county, do you not? Well, what does he tell you? He tells you that Dwyer on his way back from New Jersey by way of Portland stopped at the 'Heater Piece' in New Gloucester. That was because of Dwyer's story to him.

"There was where Dwyer killed Mrs. Littlefield. You were told the Dwyer story was that Mrs. Littlefield got her hand on the auto horn and blew it three times. And you have the testimony of other witnesses who say they heard that horn and paid little attention to it because it is the sort of signal used by coon hunters.

"Now Dwyer tells you no. The murder of Mrs. Littlefield did not take place at the Heater Piece but on Turkey Hill. Which will you believe?

"You have had testimony that Mrs. Littlefield was alive at 10:30, yet the state wants you to believe that Carroll killed her on Turkey Hill in South Paris at midnight. It is too absurd!

"You know that if Paul Dwyer killed Mrs. Littlefield he killed Dr. Littlefield. You must be convinced of it yourself.

"As to the inferences against Mr. Carroll, as to that night, the inference is that Mr Carroll has no alibi.

"That Mr Carroll had a conversation with Sid Verrill, I think it is—the deputy who had a cigarette lighter just like his—three cigarette lighters just alike in the sheriff's office alone — cigarette lighters that were sold all over South Paris and Norway—and the inference is that because Carroll had one of these cigarette lighters he was the killer of Dr. Littlefield

"Paul and the state are collaborating on this trial."

Motel Stricken Off Ballot in Senate Race

One candidate was ruled off the ballot and protests against five others were denied today by the State Ballot Law Commission.

Samuel Motel, Republican candidate for the State Senate in the 8th Suffolk district, was stricken from the ballot on the protest of Abraham Spiegel. Six witnesses testified yesterday that their names had been forged to the Motel nomination papers.

The protests denied were those of James D. Callahan against Joseph C. White's Democratic candidacy for lieutenant-governor, Francis J. Finneran against John F. Coyne in the 10th congressional district; John J. Donovan, Jr. against Richard A. Jennings in the 3d Suffolk representative district; James E. O'Brien against James D. O'Brien in the contest for senator from Worcester, and James H Norton against Frank M. Norton in Ward 16 representative contest.

The second day of protests today was featured by the protest of Anthony Langone, brother of State Senator Joseph A. Langone, Jr. against the candidacy of John Langone who is a cousin of the present senator.

Several testified that they signed John's papers in the belief that they were signing for Senator Langone. One said the space for the [illegible] but that he had been assured the paper was for the present senator.

Mrs Gina Langone, wife of John was the center of excitement for a time when officers sought to serve her with a summons as a witness. The commission took the Langone case under advisement

Court Holds Volk On Triple Charges

Pleading not guilty to charges of breaking and entering, attack upon a 14-year-old girl and polygamy Arthur L. Volk, 31, of Malden, was held for the grand jury today in Malden district court in $5000 bail.

He is alleged to have forced his way into the home of Mr. and Mrs Gordon Keddy of Crescent avenue, Malden, on the night of July 28 and to have attacked their daughter, Mary, in her bedroom. The polygamy complaint alleged that he married Esther Pashigian, pretty Malden waitress, while still wed to the former Laura Mitchell of Cherry street, Quincy.

Grocer, 84, Dies; Pal of Roosevelt

WEST SCARBORO Me Aug 12 (AP)—Albert A. Cole, 84, reputed to be the nation's oldest active grocer who once lamented with President Roosevelt that the days of the small country store was fading, died at his home here today.

The proprietor of a Scarborough grocery store who remembered Lincoln's Gettysburg Address because on that day his pay was boosted to $1.50 a month had been ill several months.

"How's business?" President Roosevelt had greeted the white-haired, keen-eyed grocer at the nation's capital in 1937. The President had told how when a boy he sat near the stove of the village grocery store in Dutchess County, N Y and swapped yarns.

When the old gentleman was asked 10 years ago whether he would retire he remarked:

"I'll hang on until the end of the chapter."

He lived in a 150-year-old farm house, crammed with priceless antiques.

The back of his trade a decade ago had been from sea captains whose ships anchored in Portland harbor.

BOSTON AMERICAN

BOSTON, FRIDAY, AUGUST 12, 1938

The Road for Us

The Editor Says:—The world today is in a state of harrowing tension. Thousands of men, women and children are dying in two barbarous wars, and a third threatens.

The causes that have led to the bloodshed, the grief, hate and destruction, are extremely complex. Their origins and nature are obscured either by deliberate distortions of impassioned partisanship or by the guilty silence of censorship.

The war of fallacies, opinions, special pleas, mendacities and half-truths has gone beyond the borders of the countries involved.

The battle of words has already overflowed into the United States, and too many Americans are taking sides.

It has even come to the point where American blood is being spilled on foreign soil, in a clash which does not concern America.

IT IS HIGH TIME that Americans thoroughly realize how important and how vital a strict neutrality is for America—not only the official neutrality of government, but the neutrality of EVERY AMERICAN CITIZEN in word and deed.

We also have wars in the United States. Not military wars against each other or against foreign armies, but against other foes that are perhaps as destructive and dangerous.

WE ARE FIGHTING SUBVERSION. WE ARE FIGHTING DEPRESSION. WE ARE FIGHTING DISEASE. WE ARE FIGHTING POVERTY AND MISERY.

And we should be fighting vigorously, and with the utmost resolution and concentration, anything that may imperil or vitiate the ideals and the methods that have made America what it is.

Why [illegible] clear, generous and free stream of American consciousness be [illegible] by the dark, turbulent currents of alien hatreds, greedy ambitions and cruel despotisms?

THE CLEAR DUTY, the inescapable task, of every American is to make America a strong, noble and prosperous nation.

Consequently to take up other peoples' ancient quarrels, to add misinformation upon misinformation or to ignore and neglect the patriotic duty America deserves and needs is to suffer disillusion and loss and to be a disloyal and dangerous fool.

America is OFFICIALLY neutral. Americans must be INDIVIDUALLY neutral. That is the road to peace, patriotism and prosperity.

NEW ENGLAND will be the subject of a National Emergency Council investigation if President Roosevelt grants permission. This is the information that comes from Washington.

Let us hope the Executive decision will be favorable. There is much about this part of the country that the New Deal ought to know and very apparently DOES NOT KNOW.

Free Trade and its ruinous effects should be studied. Certainly if ALL THE FACTS about the disastrous competition from Czechoslovakia, Japan and other low-standard countries were [illegible] in Washington, we would have FEWER tariff-slashing treaties and MORE open mills.

Nor should the constant menace of floods in the Connecticut and Merrimack river valleys be ignored. Taxes have taken enough money from us to build [illegible] dams and reservoirs. But the dollars have gone [illegible]

New England is a part of the United States—AND A VERY IMPORTANT PART. Our people demand the same opportunities for employment, safety and happiness as all other Americans enjoy.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12

WHILE the little group of serious thinkers of the White House circle is undoubtedly composed of amateur politicians, it must be admitted that while they frequently pull boners, and come croppers, they do everlastingly try their darndest.

Some of their moves are so palpably political as to make the denials of political intent sound childish.

The President's appearance at Barnesville, 'way down in southern Georgia, finds the politicians exactly timing their major coups d'etat. Mr. Harry Hopkins has inflamed the imagination of the Southern under-privileged with a boost in relief wages for 200,000.

Lowell Mellet, whose National Emergency Council was lately revived from the grave with a million-dollar shot in the arm, comes across with a report on the "Nation's No. 1 Problem."

THERE are two states in which both of these moves might very well have pronounced political effect, at a moment when the President returns in triumph to American soil via Dixie.

One of these is Georgia, and the other South Carolina. In both states Senators who are a pot of poison to the New Deal are seeking renomination: "Cotton Ed" Smith in the Palmetto State and Walter George in the great empire state of the South.

In both states the people of substance, the professional people, well-to-do farmers, and small and large business men are favorable to the sitting Senators.

IN SOUTH Carolina the bitterest pill "Cotton Ed" has to swallow while Governor Olin Johnson holds his nose until he gets over the charge that once in the senate he had said that down in his state people could live on [illegible] a day.

He may have said it. Anyhow, many in South Carolina do it. And the President, through his bureau chiefs in Washington, appeals directly to them.

If enough of this class, added to the mill workers in western South Carolina, vote for Johnson, "Cotton Ed's" number will be up. But the veteran Senator still gains ground.

In Georgia the President's appeal is always to the share-cropper and the tenant farmer, trying to wrest a living from land which should be abandoned.

But these people will not abandon their homes although the land is incapable of supporting them.

The theory that the American frontier has vanished is all nonsense. Wyoming alone has thousands of acres of irrigated land, capable of giving the under-privileged of Georgia a new chance in life. Why will they not grasp their opportunity? Are southern whites more lacking in ambition and initiative than the Negroes? It would be a pity.

General Johnson Presents

Four Reasons Why Prosperity Nears

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

(Copyright, 1938, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or part forbidden. All rights reserved.)

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—The Consumers' Goods Industries Committee has just reported that business is getting better fast with a fine fall prospect.

I got a big kick out of this for four reasons. First, these first-stringers cover a wide field and know what they are talking about, so this is a dependable forecast of a real advance.

Second, that NRA committee survived the death of the Blue Eagle and, under the skilful leadership of Mr. George Slocum, has done much to prevent departures from high code standards.

Third, it is precisely what this column began saying three months ago—"I told you so." Fourth, this business enthusiasm comes in an election year largely from anti-Third New Dealers, and refutes the insinuation that business is hanging back on the traces of recovery to embarrass the Administration.

General Johnson

The report covers a wide range of business — practically all except the capital goods industries. It tells a consistent story throughout — stocks low, demand and activity increasing. There isn't really a sour note in it.

It is true that there can be no real recovery without the capital or heavy goods industries and these cannot stage a comeback without a restoration of the flow of new private money into the investment market. It is not so hard to pump-prime a consumers' goods boom. That was even done by Mr. Hoover in the fall of 1932 and by the New Deal in 1933 and 1937 but, because these spurts did not extend to the new investment and heavy-goods group, it flew on one wing and fell.

It is also true that part of this activity is due to the prospect of a new colossal government spending spree and that we are getting toward the end of our rope on that. There won't always be something to use for money. But that is the precise reason why, regardless of political or economic prejudice in an election year, business leaders generally are pushing the idea that all should get on the crank of this engine with a mighty yo-heave-ho and try to get hitting on all cylinders even if this is an artificial starter.

THE MERE RISE in the stock market, based upon the prospect that business is going to be good has created billions of dollars of potential investment and buying power—many times more than all the federal spending. This may be called "paper" wealth and more "book-keeping entries"—but so is a government bond.

The stock market rise increases by billions the borrowing or buying power of millions of people. It does more than that. It releases their confidence and courage to spend or invest other money.

There is nothing so conducive to rising business and if that tide of confidence should ever go to the height of releasing for investment the stupendous hoards of frightened, hiding, idle private money thus far scared into a thousand holes by political fears, we could have full recovery with a dangerous rush.

THIS FLOOD might install the Third New Deal in perpetuity notwithstanding that many of its own policies have prevented it thus far. But nothing—not even that—would justify anything but the utmost encouragement of the present trend.

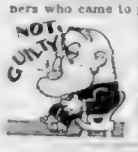
This depression has gone on too long—far beyond the danger point. This may be a way out.

"There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune; omitted, all the voyage of their life is bound in shallows and miseries."

One Word Led to Another

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

INSPECTOR BYRNES promised us a list of Little Dave's partners who came to grief. The mob admired Little Dave for his skill and daring, but realized he would sacrifice everybody to save himself.

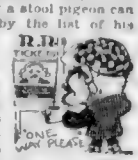


HERE'S his record up till 1884: Scott died in Concord Prison recently. It was this thief who was in on the Quincy job. Dunlap is doing 20 in the same jail for the Northampton bank robbery. Jim Brady is serving runaway time and a bit extra for felonious assault in Auburn Prison; in all, about seven years. Ike Marsh is working out a 17-year jolt in the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia.

JESSE ALLEN'S earthly troubles are over. Sam Perris is a fugitive from justice, being accused of the murder of the cashier of the Dexter Savings Bank. George Leslie's body was found in the woods near Yonkers, murdered by his associates. Dingo Frank, Ed Johnson and Mose Vogel have just finished seven years and six months in San Quentin.

LITTLE DAVE was outside man when Vogel, Johnson and Frank were arrested cracking the First National Bank of Jersey City in 1872.

INSPECTOR BYRNES is amazed at the stupidity of the underworld in permitting Little Dave to run with the hares and hunt with the hounds. Any doubt as to him being a stool pigeon can be eliminated by the list of his former partners now in jail.



HE NEVER took the trouble to warn his pals. The minute the police appeared Little Dave went the way of all flesh and never used the return half of his ticket.

Girl About Town

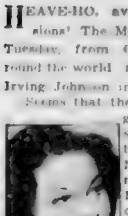
HEAVE-HO, avast and other nautical expressions! The Mariner Girl Scouts set sail, come Tuesday, from Gloucester, aboard the famous round the world schooner Yankee, with Captain Irving Johnson in command.

Seems that these Girl Scout cruises have been going on for the past three years, sailing from Long Island, but this will be the first time out of New England. The crew will be made up of girls from Salem, Marblehead and Cape Cod, and the cruise will last for one week.



Ann Marsters

In case you don't know what I'm talking about, I'll start at the beginning.

"The Mariners" are made up of a sea-faring branch of Girl Scouts between the ages of 14 and 18. Each summer, their organization charters a boat and cruises are arranged every week, with 14 girls sailing at a time.

The Tuesday cruise will be the seventh of the season. While they are aboard ship, the girls assume all shipboard duties and Captain Johnson instructs them in matters of sails, spars and rigging, steering, sailmaking and navigation. Besides the crew of 14 girls and three mates, he takes along a skeleton crew of four men, all ready to take charge—just in case the girls get seasick.

Captain Johnson, you recall, returned last May from a round-the-world sail in the Yankee.

Betty Fisher Smith, who will be one of the mates, tells us that next summer the Mariners hope to charter, for New England cruises only, the Gertrude Thebaud, Captain Ben Pines boat which is entered in the Fishermen's race between here and Canada, on October 12.

OFFICE JOKE: The employer was accustomed to being out of the office a good deal on business and was rather worried as to the behavior of his secretary during his absence. One morning he asked her, "I hope you don't just sit and twiddle your thumbs when I'm not here."

"Oh no, sir," she answered. "I bring my knitting."

LITERARY NOTE: Are you acquainted with the poetry of Emily Dickinson? If you aren't you should be.

She has been spoken of by more than one severe critic, as "the greatest woman poet of all time, including Sappho."

During her lifetime, which was spent in Amherst, Massachusetts, she never sought recognition through her poems; she did not wish to have them published. Not until many years after her death (in 1886) did her work become known to the world.

Her dislike of the thing called fame which might have been hers while she lived is expressed in one of her poems which concludes:

"How dreary to be somebody
How public, like a frog
To tell your name the livelong day
To an admiring bog!"

The Brighter Side

by Damon Runyon

IF PRESIDENTIAL possibilities were like heavyweight prize fighter prospects, we have an idea a lot of Republican political managers would be camping on Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia's doorstep.

In prize fighting, the minute a heavyweight prospect discloses the slightest promise, the pugilistic managers get on his trail and try to either steal him away entirely from the fellow who has the contract on the prospect or fatten in that to cut in for a small piece of him.

Damon Runyon

Often the fellow who first hits up with the prospect knows very little about the business, so it is not difficult for the professional managers to talk him out of his prize fighter, especially if they can dazzle the prize fighter himself with glowing promises of the abundant life. We regret to say that prize fighter prospects are no more grateful to their original sponsors than political prospects.

The history of our leading heavyweight prize fighters down through the years will show that few of them wound up with the managers they started out with as prospects. We have no definite line in that respect on political prospects with specific reference to presidential possibilities, though there are some cases where the possibility stuck to his original manager even after the presidency became reality.

HOWEVER, let us get back to Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia. "The Little Flower." The reason we got to thinking of him is we ran into a fellow who represents a big magazine the other day and he said he is going West to feel out that section of the country on him and on other Republican presidential possibilities.

"Bruce Barton, too," we asked.

NOW of course Mayor LaGuardia is our own pet possibility because he would set up a whooping like never was in a presidential campaign and that would be swell for the newspaper business. But Bruce Barton interests us somewhat, because, reverting to the heavyweight prize fighter prospect thing, he reminds us so much of Gene Tunney, when Gene was a prospect.

The reason that as a presidential possibility he reminds us of Tunney as a heavyweight prospect is that no one paid much attention to Tunney for a long time. In the profession he followed he was held in such low esteem that no other manager considered him worth stealing off the fellow who had him and that is really subnormal esteem. He was a clever fellow, but lacked crowd appeal in his early prize fighting days and that is the way Bruce Barton strikes us as a presidential possibility.

HOLLYWOOD: I did not go fishing. But I almost did. Several gentlemen of Hollywood solemnly assured me I could not say truthfully I had lived the full life until I had braved the deep off Catalina, or Guaymas or Ensenada in quest of the truculent marlin or tuna, the more docile white bass or small barracuda.

Louis Sobol

I WAS TOLD of the 300 pound marlin who actually snarled, they swore, he snarled — when Zane Grey conquered him after a nine-hour battle. Grey was so charmed with his captive's insolent personality, he went home and tried to write a novel around him, but gave up after the first chapter and made it a Western thriller about two other fellows named Mike and Joe. Director Raymond Griffith himself, in front of witnesses, who included Gene Markey, Charles Boyer and William K. Howard, described his capture, in 12 minutes flat, of a 212-pounder off Catalina. This is something of a record and local newspapers made due and eulogistic comment thereon, but Griffith, with his customary modesty, insisted it was nothing at all.

I WAS TOLD that once Irvin Cobb went to Catalina and dozed off in the boat into a beautiful dream in which a gorgeous mermaid wound his fisherman's line gently around her head, and lo, the line became a string of precious pearls and the hook a crown of gold and rubies and diamonds, and Cobb, unwilling to let the treasure sink with the mermaid, began pulling it toward him. They swear it's the truth, that this woke him from his dream and he found startling almost upright on its tail as marlins do a colossal whopper who must have weighed at least 400 pounds.

THERE IS, of course, a wide difference between the Pacific Coast marlin and the Atlantic Coast broadbilled cousin. The latter is a bulk of a fellow who reaches a poundage sometimes in excess of 800 pounds, whereas the marlin in these waters is much more careful about his waistline and rarely goes over 375. As a matter of fact, I understand the two branches of this distinguished fighting family are not on speaking terms.

HOWEVER, I do not go fishing, as I have said. The slightest hint how I should have behaved if I had gone fishing. I did go to a certain house on the hill, where some fine fellows had and well met, were assembled, and during the intermission in the poker session, tasty sturgeon flown from Barney Greengrass in New York was served, and I had my share. My share of that sturgeon cost me a pretty farthing, for I did not win a hand, thereafter. I could have purchased a whole boatload of marlin for what that little piece of sturgeon cost me.

TO THE MOVIE Operators of America [illegible] and several million other decent Americans [illegible] the nobler things of life and believe that [illegible] respect. Meaning in [illegible] that we are [illegible] that we cherish their high moments of [illegible] and that we are plenty peeved when [illegible] to spoil those moments as they are at present. Wherefore we suggest you [illegible]

Elsie Robinson

I submit, as an example, the current showing of a splendid picture. No film could have come to an American audience [illegible] It is not only acted with [illegible] but portrays a most poignant moment in our national history . . . an incident so courageous, so self-sacrificing, so infinitely touching that it should move every spectator to reverential tears.

All of which, gentlemen, you must have foreseen and counted on when you made that picture at the cost of many thousand of round dollars. But what happened when this noble film was eventually revealed? This is what happened.

Three men sat in a room. They were young, lean, sleek and supple with power of youth . . . warm with the dreams and desires. Three young men, shaped for romance and adventure. Yet for six days they had been sitting in a room where horror defied the foulest nades. And Terror had been sitting with them.

You could see it in their straining staring eyes. You could see it in their grinning, blistered lips over which their dry tongues flickered . . . flickered . . . like the tongues of cornered beasts. You could see it in their fingertips . . . [illegible] probing at blood-stuffed blankets, at filth-smeared [illegible] at glasses ridged with an awful rime.

Terror sat with those men and it was a terrible wonder. For men had writhed, in the death convulsion, under those blankets, on those floors . . . men had spilled out their lives on those crusted glasses.

AND NOW THREE YOUNG MEN SAT, OF THEIR OWN ACCORD, IN THAT DREADFUL, DEATH-DRENCHED ROOM, SEEKING TO DISCOVER THE SECRET OF THAT DEATH.

IN ALL American history there is no nobler, no more heart-rending incident than this ghastly one, when three young men risked their lives voluntarily that others might be saved. In all human progress, there is no incident which should draw the spirit more surely to its knees . . . which should more certainly rejuvenate even the most stupid and ignorant of men . . .

But what actually happened when "the film unrolled?" Were there not tears? Was there that reverent silence which should inevitably come when man kneels in communion with God and partakes of the Divine Fire?

YES THERE WAS NOT! TO THE CONTRARY, THERE WERE SNICKERS—GUFFAWS. HIP SLAPPINGS. BIG PUNCHINGS! SO CERTAIN INDIVIDUALS RESPONDED TO THE MOST EXALTED ACT IN ITS OWN HISTORY!

Nor is this an isolated instance. I am a constant movie attendant. But seldom have I seen a moment of heart-wrenching pathos or heart-lifting courage which was not marred by such outrageous exhibitions. And so, in the name of decency, I appeal to you American movie operators . . . I appeal to my fellow American columnists—

LET US DO SOMETHING ABOUT THIS THING! LET US RISE IN PROTEST AGAINST SUCH DEGRADATION OF OUR AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE AND OUR AMERICAN DECENCY! LET US TELL THESE VULGAR, STUPID HOODLUMS WHERE TO HEAD IN!

FOR YOU Movie Operators of America I suggest that you prepare an announcement to be run whenever such a [illegible] starts. Saying briefly: "YOU ARE IN THE PRESENCE OF A BEAUTIFUL AND NOBLE HUMAN ACT. IF YOU CANNOT APPRECIATE IT, EITHER BE SILENT OR GET OUT INTO THE GUTTER WHERE YOU BELONG."

And for you American Columnists I ask: On behalf [illegible] request! You, more than any other group of citizens, should revere and respect high physical courage, spiritual beauty. [illegible] your talent to protect. And [illegible] against the cruelties of crowds! Help me by broadcasting your vote as I have broadcast mine.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

NO WOMAN ever forgets a man who has once told her that she has beautiful eyes.

EVERY MAN has some sort of complex about women: some pet peeve. With some it's an antipathy to bright red fingernails; with others it's a phobia against crooked stocking seams. But with most it's just an all-around aversion to too much BRAINS.

THE HONEYMOON is over when he can worry about the stock market or speculate on when they are going to have for dinner—instead of kissing her scruples when he powders her back.

YOU'D be surprised to know how many "high hat" ladies still continue to drive high-powered cars and live in luxury, on hope, charity and the mercy of their creditors, even in these days.

SOMEHOW the woman who does not take a man seriously is always the object of a paragon of common sense.

IF YOU have to suppress the emotion you feel for a man or woman, you may be sure that it is love. Love was the Alpha-bet's first letter of the eye.

THE GLAMOUR BOY may be a light, but a soft-pedal touch: the "come hither" spot of heather light is far more necessary for a husband to be loved, cuddled and loyal than it is for him to be handsome, brilliant or prosperous.

NO MATTER how independent a man may have been, it takes a "just for myself" to put him first—some girl who thinks she can [illegible] for him.

Common Sense Best Cure For Jealousy

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Through jealousy I lost my first husband. I was always accusing him of being too friendly with other women and he told me he might as well have the game as the name. So he gave me my divorce and I have never really been able to forget him.

I married again, a man a good deal older than myself because I thought there would be less cause for suffering from this beset'ing sin of mine. But I couldn't help it. He had been married before, and I was jealous of his grown children none of whom loved with us.

I was jealous of his golf game, his card club, his men friends, the books he read. I wanted him to be with me whenever he was not at his office, and I wanted his assurance there was no one else in the world but me. After four years of marriage he asked me if I would not give my freedom. As he thought we would be happier apart. Since that time he has made his home with his elder daughter, who is married. I am very unhappy. Can anything be done for this unpleasant state of affairs?

MAYBELLE.

Perhaps a psychiatrist might be able to help you and bring from the depths of your sub-conscious mind the reason why an intelligent woman should deliberately torture herself and those she loves with such attitudes of possessiveness. Unless you can overcome your abnormal jealousy I certainly would not advise you to try to become remarried with your husband. For I would guarantee no happiness for anybody.

Good Manners on Beach

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

"The sea and sky and eternal out of doors" . . . what do they do to your manners? Are your manners so well-grounded that they don't blow out to sea the minute you set your foot on summer sands? do you conduct yourself with the good taste and mannerly restraint that you would use in any other public place?

Or, the minute you put on a bathing-suit, do you check your manners in the bath house?

Not to make yourself conspicuous, not to attract unfavorable attention to yourself or to others . . . these are the fundamental rules for decent manners on a beach, first, watch your voice; don't talk loudly, don't yell across the open spaces, don't laugh hilariously.

Let's consider some of the other things that make people conspicuous on the beach. How about the boy who sprawls on the sand with his arms wrapped around a girl? Or a girl who sprawls on the sand with her head in a boy's lap. Unsightly lolling, unattractive postures, gross behavior.

About bathing suits? The style of them, the yardage of them, the color of them these aren't as important as their appropriateness to you, their becomingness to you. If you are young and pretty and have a form divine, you and your swimming suit are fortunate. But if you are not so young, or if there are rotundities to be considered, keep in mind that important word "coming" when you choose your suit

Etiquette Takes First Place

Come, Peggy! Unlocking your front door is one of the many little services that etiquette says your date does for you.

By latching with that key yourself you show you're not used to attention and men love to be seen with the girl who's a little mysterious, made them for as soon as Adolphe Menjou

Next time you date them, I'll charge back to the car for your vanity case, ask your date to get it for you. Let him help you with your wraps. If you go running up him pull out your comb on your way

When the evening's over don't say "Thank you for your time for You should only say that you so happy with I had such a grand time."

For a little more help with etiquette for the grown-up, don't know what to wear to a party, ask your hostess. Let me dress. Write a letter, or drop me a card, telling me the type of party you're going to, whether you like to be a "formal dance" and dressy or not to dress up.

After the ultra violet at either end of the spectrum were discovered—these invisible rays were the invention of glasses to screen out such of these rays as pass on.

It is the ultra violet rays beyond the violet end of the spectrum which cause the conjunctivitis of the [illegible]

Some abortive attempts at making colored glasses were made by Pleusel of Paris and Dr. William Thompson of Philadelphia in the 1880's. Thompson used glasses made with an amethyst [illegible] and since no good formula for making amethyst glass existed opticians used old window panes, colored amethyst by long exposure to sunlight. Such were the crude beginnings of the modern industry of colored glasses.

EXPERIMENTS WITH COLORED LENSES

But in 1909 the Glass Workers Cataract Committee of Great Britain engaged Sir Isaac Cheshire to experiment on adding various metals to the ingredients of glass in order to produce various colored lenses. The committee was so named because they were attempting to prevent a cataract peculiar to glass blowers, and considered to be due to [illegible] rays.

The result of these experiments was the Cheshire glasses which are now the most popular form of sun goggles. They range in color from dark green almost black to almost white.

The needs of the aviator, the motorist and the fisherman or hunter are all somewhat different as regards colored glasses. The aviator needs to be relieved of glare but he also needs glasses that will cut out all the violet rays of the sun. The eye sees over large spaces and must [illegible] by the yellow-green rays of the spectrum.

Chic All-Around Furs

IF YOU'VE a canny eye out for a fur coat that's going to keep you and your budget snug and yet is going to have a definite fashion flair, we can't do better than suggest one of this pair. If you wear tweeds and knits, a lot of brown and other rich colors, you'll like the two-tone muskrat with slightly swing swagger back, mandarin sleeves and military color. Silver and dark muskrat are used cleverly. The other is the simplest of Hudson seals, cut with a neat chic, after Molyneux. Lines are boxy, and the roll tuxedo collar is trig; for shopping information on either coat, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, week-days until five or write her at the Boston American.

Try Cooked Bananas With Fish Course

FROM MARTHA LEE'S FRIDAY BROADCAST OVER STATION WMEX—11:30 A. M.

Disciples of the Izaak Walton include not only those who feel through life but also you whose pretty hat is to cook the catch! Even if the net must be cast at the market, for lack of luck don't let that stop you getting your share of fresh and fine and favorite fish!

What goes with fish? What you want? Baked potatoes adrip with butter are beloved; mashed by some, fluffy by others. Cole slaw inside the crunchy rolls you need, and certainly any fish dinner would wind up with a big hearty cup of good coffee an ideal ending to any meal.

Now but nothing doesn't perfect as the accompaniment to fish are bananas, broiled or fried them, whichever method you are using for the fish. They serve as garnish and vegetable (even instead of potatoes, all at once).

FISH AND FRUIT PLATTER

4 [illegible] fish
[illegible]
Melted butter
[illegible]
4 [illegible] bananas

Arrange fish and tomatoes on rack of broiler. Brush tomatoes with melted butter and sprinkle with salt. Place rack about five inches below broiler and broil in very hot oven (500 deg. F.) six to eight minutes or until it is brown. Turn fish and place bananas (brushed with melted butter and sprinkled with salt) on rack of broiler. Continue broiling about 5 minutes longer or until bananas are tender and brown. Four servings.

SPECIAL CABBAGE SLAW

2 cups fine shreds of cabbage
½ cup [illegible] grapefruit segments
¼ cup minced green pepper
½ cup celery seed dressing

Combine cabbage, green pepper and grapefruit, drained of juice. Mix with dressing, toss and serve.

CELERY SEED DRESSING

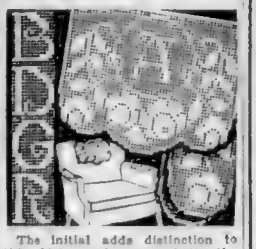
Combine ¾ cup sugar, ¾ cup vinegar, ½ tsp salt, ½ tsp dry mustard and 1 tsp paprika. Bring to boiling point and cool. Add 1 cup of cooking oil slowly, beating constantly. Add 1 tsp celery seeds for celery salt. Beat well.

BRAZILIAN FISH

4 tbsp butter
[illegible] flour
½ tsp salt
Pepper
1 tsp Worcestershire sauce
2 cups milk
1 cup ground Brazil nuts
2 pimientos
1 13-oz. can tuna fish
6 slices [illegible]

Melt butter, stir in flour and seasonings and when well blended stir in milk gradually. Add ground Brazil nuts. Cut six strips of pimiento for garnishing and cut remaining pimiento into small pieces; add to white sauce. Add flaked tuna fish; pour mixture into baking dish, arrange strips of pimiento and whole Brazil nuts on top and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 15 minutes.

Distinction



The initial adds distinction to this filet crochet set that's the easiest ever in string. The design also lends itself to buffet sets and scarf ends.

You can use the initials alone, too, as inserts for linens.

Pattern 1844 contains charts and directions for making the set and a complete alphabet, the initials measuring 4 x 4½ inches; materials required; illustrations of stitches.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for this pattern to Boston Evening American, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number, your name and address.

Rain Fails to Halt Horse Show

By BETTY ALDEN

HORSEMEN are like stage troupers . . . come what may, their show must go on . . . and though yesterday's heavy downpour moistened their coats and breeches, it didn't dampen the spirits of all the horse lovers gathered for the opening of the three-day Cohasset Horse Show.

The horseshoe of freshly painted, covered grandstands, offered a comfortable shelter to the spectators, while back of the grandstands there was all the hustle and bustle of saddling, harnessing and grooming which goes with preparing horses for the show ring or track, no matter what the weather.

Martha Crapin, Mrs. Stanley Whipple, Anne Whipple and Betsy Cooper, whose job was to sell programs, carried on at an improvised desk under a spreading tree until the downpour became so heavy they had to move their programs and cash box inside . . . Mrs. Whipple wore a becoming suit of plum angora, with navy blue accessories . . . Martha's pleated black dress was covered by a rough and ready trench coat, while Anne Whipple looked as lovely as usual in a black and white tweed suit with a coral jacket and full length coat of the tweed . . . Her little turban and pocketbook were of the same black and white fabric.

After completing her program-selling duties for the day Anne sat in the grandstand with Eleanor Van Kleeck and Dick Brackley, where they had a perfect vantage point from which to watch the jumpers in the outside course.

No horse show would be complete without the presence of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cox, who are not only exhibiting eight horses, but also have a houseful of guests for the three-day show. Mr. and Mrs. Roger H. Young, of White Planes, New York, sat in the box with Mrs. Cox's mother, Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, on whose beautiful private show grounds the affair is being held.

The horse show is the big event of the year for the Cox's great dane, "Harkie," as well as for their horses. He insisted on enjoying it, in spite of the fact that Mrs. Cox told him to go home a number of times. At each command he would turn and walk a few steps in the homeward direction, but the next instant she would find him ambling complacently at her heels.

Winners

Phoebe Rotch and Her 'Nervy' Take Trophy

WINNING and exhibiting trophies is part of the thrill of every horse show, especially for an accomplished young equestrienne like Phoebe Rotch, shown here with her hunter, "Nervy," which helped her win the trophy she is holding in her hand at the Cohasset Horse Show yesterday. Miss Rotch is the sub-debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rotch, of Commonwealth Avenue and Hill Top Farm, Middleboro.

Miss Hastings Weds Soon

Miss Roberta Hastings, daughter of Mrs. Robert W. Hastings of Brookline, has chosen August 17th as the date for her marriage to Joseph Edwin Upson 2nd, son of Professor and Mrs. Walter L. Upson, of Litchfield, Ct.

The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Donald M. Hall Jr. in Newton Highlands with Dr. Harris G. Hale officiating. Mrs. Hall and Miss Pauline Brandmuehl of Canfield, Ohio, will be the bridesmaids only attendants and David R. Upson, brother of the bridegroom, will be best man. Immediately after the ceremony there will be a reception, also at Mrs. Hall's home.

Following their wedding trip the couple will live in Moscow, Idaho, where Mr. Upson will be a member of the faculty of the University of Idaho. The bride-to-be is a graduate of Wheaton School and Radcliffe College. Mr. Upson graduated from Princeton in 1933 and received his Ph.D. from Harvard this past June.

Proparvulis Girls Off to Savannah

Miss Mary A. Ryan, of Brookline, popular member of the Proparvulis Club and Miss Mary MacDonald, also of Brookline, newly elected vice-president and chairman of dances for the coming year, have left on a cruise to Savannah, Georgia.

They will return in time to renew club activities for the autumn season.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fernald and their daughter Louise of Marblehead Neck are sailing tomorrow for a sojourn in Bermuda. They will be away about three weeks and will make their headquarters at Shelly Bay.

North Shore Flower Show Set to Open

North Shore flower lovers are now putting the finishing touches on the panorama of beauty they have created in Horticultural Hall, Manchester, as a setting for the annual three-day flower show of the North Shore Horticultural Society. The exhibit opens tomorrow.

The center of the main hall is covered and planted in a replica of a village green and on the stage and opposite sides will be roadside flower and plant stands.

Miss Ellen Moseley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben P. P. Moseley of Ipswich, has arranged an herb garden as her contribution to the exhibition.

Mrs. Moseley is a member of the committee in charge of the show together with Mrs. Harold J. Cutler, Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby, Mrs. William Stuart Forbes, Mrs. Endicott Dexter, Mrs. Nathaniel Stephens Jr. and Mrs. Arthur Ewell, all prominent members of the North Shore Horticultural Society.

Society Attends 'Susan' Opening

The opening of "Susan and God" at the Ogunquit Playhouse drew a brilliant society array. Among the veteran first nighters was Elizabeth Perkins. Incidentally she has never been known to miss an opening night performance.

It seemed that white gowns were most popular with the ladies while the men looked quite "all there" in their white shawl-collared jackets and tuxedo trousers.

Dorothy Bond Soon Back From Vacation

Miss Dorothy Bond, of Dedham, will return from a summer vacation at Barbadoes on the return trip of the Lady Hawkins, which sails from Boston tomorrow on a three week's cruise to the tropics.

Passengers embarking here tomorrow for the cruise will include Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Fonda, with their son, John Fonda; Mrs. W. W. Davies, and Mr. and Mrs. T. Stewart MacDonald.

MRS. HAWKINS IN N. Y.

Mrs. Bertram S. Hawkins, of Wellesley Hills, is visiting friends in New York and plans to return home in a few days.

Denny Jordan gasped: "Is she—?"

"Sure," scoffed the doctor. "She's coming through nicely. A brave young woman is your wife. I'll let you see her, but don't speak."

"Oh, Doctor, she—I mean the baby—"

"That's great, Doc. You're wonderful. This is a wonderful place. I never felt so proud. I don't think I'll ever be able to go through this again. It takes so much out of you, don't it?"

"Yes, middle-aged fathers are a problem. We never see patients at such things. We sacrifice so much to patients."

"You're telling me, Doc," murmured Denny. "And this is my first experience as you put it, and I'm middle-aged."

"Indeed?" said the doctor, evidently somewhat relieved at Denny's admission. "Why, I'd never have suspected that."

"Sure I know that," nodded Denny. "I'm the kind that hides what's going inside them. You know, big emotions, inner fires. The type that can take it and show nothing and say nothing. But, Doc, this is what I've been waiting through? Was it as bad as I think it was? Was it a tax, I'd say."

"IT'S A BOY"

The doctor's face was grave. He looked around the hall. Then he spoke in a low voice. "I'm sorry, Mr. Jordan—"

"Mr. Who, Doc? I'm a—I'm a—I mean I'm a father. I just—I just—I'm a father. I'm a—I'm a—I'm a father. I'm a father. I'm a father.

HOURLY

PLAY-BY-PLAY IN THE STOCK MARKET

Under a fresh burst of selling, which at times carried the ticket tape three minutes behind, stocks reacted from fractions to more than three points today. This was the fifth day of the easing movement and the wave of liquidation set trading at the highest rate for the month.

10-11. Following up yesterday's wide retreat, leading issues opened from a fraction to a point lower. Good sized selling orders developed overnight and blocks, such as 3000 shares of N Y Central, 2000 of U S Rubber common, 1400 of Chrysler, 2000 in U S Steel were thrown out. After the initial bunch of selling, offerings dried up. A little support appeared and fractional losses were shaded here and there from the second hour. Practically all pivotal stocks were found on the downside. Centering the move with moderate liquidation were National Dept. U S Rubber preferred, Douglas Aircraft, Homestake Mining. Brokers reported that fears over what may happen on the Czechoslovak border tended to handicap speculative sentiment. The turnover was 360,000 shares.

11-12—After a feeble rally a new selling wave hit the list. At the height of the liquidation the ticker tape was three minutes or so behind. Leaders tumbled from fractions to three points. Many good sized blocks changed hands in this period. This was more than a day before all-day. Compared to the early and mid-forties, Motors, Chrysler, U S Steel, Case, Westinghouse and Texas Gulf Sulphur broke to the low level of the day. Some switching of the list was noted, with good sized orders coming to light in Steel and Allied Chemical. The turnover was 871,000 shares.

12-1. Support which appeared shortly after the forced to abandon existing levels. Volume slowed up on the attempt. Profit taking on a moderate scale in the heaviest part of the session was due to closing out of undertakings on covering by investment trusts, according to executives from customers. Steels were affected by reports of further price cutting. Cutter prices received scant and from mill works freight boards which created a decrease of 6651 cars. Coppers were weak on poor estimate statements. Toward the end of the third hour renewed selling pressure started a new rockslide. All the leaders were hit hard. The turnover reached 1,070,000 shares.

1-2. With volume established as the highest for the month, the easing movement continued to make good progress. All eyes seemed to be turned to the foreign situation, with much concern expressed over troop movements near the Czech frontier. The resumption of gold hoarding in London, with a boost in the price there of yellow metal at $34.78 an ounce, the highest level since November, 1936, brought about a new drive on stocks. In a number of cases extreme losses ran up to four points. But few issues showed dips of fractions, most of the losses being measured by points or more. All groups were under constant pressure. The turnover was 1,300,000 shares.

Arkin, Jewish Newspaperman, In Anniversary

Leon Arkin

Born in Luna, Province of Grodno, Arkin was forced to flee his home because of revolutionary activities against the Czarist regime in Russia. Landing in America, he became active in Jewish and labor circles.

He served as chairman of the New England division of the "Ort," an organization to rehabilitate declassed Jews of Europe; as chairman of the Jewish Labor Committee; vice-president of the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society, and secretary of the board of directors of the Workmen's Circle.

He is a member of the Boston City Club, the Advertising Club of Boston, Germania Lodge of Masons, and many other organizations. With his wife he will spend the day with his two daughters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bergen and Mr. and Mrs. Basil Feinberg.

Steel Costs Must Be Cut

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—The recent reductions in steel prices cannot be absorbed in larger volume, but must be accompanied by a cut in costs.

[illegible]

Kuhn, president of the Otis Steel Company, said that:

"Larger volume of steel production, even such as prevailed in 1937, the third greatest year for steel output, cannot be expected to offset the decline in revenues resulting from the recently lowered prices. The industry's profits per ton last year were somewhere in the range of $5.50 to $6.50, and the return on investment was just over 6 per cent.

"It has been estimated that the recent price reductions will amount to between $4.50 to $5.50 per ton, from which it becomes apparent that any increase in volume less than near-peak levels will fail by a wide margin to compensate for the lower revenues."

BUYING QUIET

In commenting on the effect of the steel price [illegible] orders Mr. Kuhn added:

"The recent downward revision of steel prices has as yet been unproductive of a sharp buying movement. From the standpoint of the purchaser of steel, it seems that there is some uncertainty as to how extensively previous buyer-seller relationships be re-aligned under the new conditions."

Interpreting in simple, lay language the recent changes in the basing point system of quoting steel prices, the chief executive of Otis pointed out:

"Abolishment of price differentials between certain steel-producing areas has not changed the method of quoting prices for steel products. It has created changed conditions, however, where differentials were reduced or eliminated.

"The 'Pittsburgh-plus' system has not been in use since 1924, when multiple basing points were established. The number of these basing points has increased steadily since that time, and recent announcements added one or two additional cities to the list of basing points for one or more products."

VIEWS ON OUTLOOK

Referring to the effect of the federal spend-lend policy on steel industry prospects, Mr. Kuhn said:

"The federal government itself is a minor customer of the steel industry, consuming directly not more than one or two per cent of the total steel output. How much steel may be consumed in projects financed wholly or in part with government funds, but undertaken by private agencies cannot be determined, and for this reason it is impossible to evaluate the effect upon the steel industry of the new federal spend-lend program."

"An early return of the steel operations figure to what might be called 'normal' seems rather improbable under existing circumstances. At the present time production is in the neighborhood 37 per cent of capacity, approximately half of 'normal,' and far below the break-even point for profits.

"To raise steel production to a point where the industry will get out of the red would require substantial increases in the tonnage of steel consumed in building construction, by the railroads, by automobile and agricultural implement makers, by the canning industry and by other steel-consuming lines.

Good News

WATERBURY, Ct., Aug. 12 (INS)—Business is better in Waterbury, "brass capital of the nation," according to the Chamber of Commerce today. Substantial gains in employment during July and continued improvement during August was reported.

Based on a survey, the Chamber reported there were 30,616 persons employed regularly in July, a gain of 701 over June.

Recent developments in the domestic wood situation and mill consumption prospects for the last half of 1938 may bring further moderate advances in wood prices, states the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—Study of the nation's July radio business indicates that flood tide has started, as far as retail set sales are concerned. Radio Retailing's barometer climbed to the 91 mark from its "low water stage" of 87 in June, and may be expected to rise with increasing force to reach the high point in December, unless some unforeseen circumstances should check the advance.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Engineering construction awards for the latest week bring the heavy construction volume to date to $1,612,149,000, an increase of 1.1 per cent over the $1,554,818,000 reported for the corresponding period last year, Engineering News Record reported today. The week's total, $76,431,000 was 33 per cent above the previous week's, and 69 per cent above the corresponding 1937 week.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—James J. Connors, Collector of Customs at Juneau, Alaska, reported to the Treasury Department today that because of the expansion of Alaskan mining industries the Territory had increased its purchases of merchandise from the United States in the fiscal year 1938 by more than $4,000,000 over 1937.

Hal Kemp Divorce In Texas Revealed

CALUMET CITY, Ill., Aug. 12 (NS) — Hal Kemp, nationally-known orchestra leader and his wife, the former Bess Slaughter of Dallas, Tex., were divorced here two weeks ago, it was revealed today. The decree was granted by Judge Lemar Lenahan. The Kemps were married in Dallas seven years ago.

Reached in New York City, Kemp declared:

"We just decided to separate. Our marriage wouldn't work out."

One Film Per Year For Charlie McCarthy

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service

Copyright 1938

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 Charlie McCarthy won't get a chance to wear out his movie welcome, for the boss, Edgar Bergen, has put his foot down on making more than one picture a year.

Spurred by the success of Bergen, Charlie, and the hayseed, Mortimer Snerd, in "Letter of Introduction," Universal is anxious to get the devastating trio back on the screen immediately. But the smart Bergen has no intention of letting Charlie wise-crack himself out of popular favor.

Louella O. Parsons

Amazing, however, to hear that Edgar is so anxious to give the public something different, he is seriously considering Ben Hecht's "The Great Gabbo," for his next year's appearance at U. Surely the story of the ventriloquist who falls in love only to find the girl cares more for the "Dummy" will be lightened and made more amusing than when Eric Von Stroheim starred in it years ago, for I can't imagine Charlie going tragic on us.

In the meantime, it should make Charlie happy to know he hasn't rival Mortimer will sit on Her gets knee only on the screen and will be absent from the radio since he has to be seen to be appreciated.

Tried to get George Raft on the long distance telephone for a few "the flash that" gossip at Paramount were hitting again this time over Sir Louis Rhodes and that Raft was on the suspect list for refusing to report for work.

But, since he wasn't in the mood to talk, we're limited to Paramount's story and that certainly won't have much punch.

The studio in a formal announcement of the suspension insists that George had okayed the script the first week and then changed his mind.

week later he demanded, through his agents, that his next option, coming due Dec. 12, 1938, be taken up immediately.

When the studio refused to talk new contract until the date stipulated, George suddenly decided the script was wrong again. However, in justice to Raft, we can't say he hasn't his side in balking at a master of ceremonies role after his he-man roles in "Souls At Sea" and "Spawn of the North."

A persuasive Warner Brothers representative and Douglas Corrigan have been "in conference" again about "Dublin by Mistake."

Jack Warner has seen the flier's newsreel pictures and is of the opinion that Doug would be better in the movies than he thinks he would. However, Corrigan remains camera-shy, although amenable to the argument that he would be helping other air-minded youths by appearing in an aviation film.

James Cagney, I hear, is one of those who feels that Corrigan should be in his own picture, so maybe our California hero will change his mind. Up to today he was still of the opinion that the sky is the place for him.

'Racket Busters' Intense Drama

"Racket Busters" the Cosmopolitan picture now unreeling on the Paramount and Fenway screens, is a superb example of how the screen can successfully combine entertainment and civic service.

Lifted right out of the headlines, "Racket Busters" while emulating human stories some of the details of a special prosecutor's fight against a racket's highest-up who is trying to declare himself as a partner of the commercial merchants of America's first city.

The story is set in New York City's Washington Market district which is reproduced on an Hollywood largest sound stage in another achievement for the Cosmopolitan unit.

Robert Lord and Leonard Berkman did the original screen play. Joseph Mankiewicz revalidized version of which is now appearing on the Boston Paramount and Fenway screens.

The picture was first endorsed by the Commercial Crime Commission, long a leader in the war on rackets. The film also carries the endorsement of a number of local civic and merchant organizations that have seen it at special private previews. F. D.

'Alexander's Band' Cavalcade of Jazz

By PEGGY DOYLE

Irving Berlin will never have a finer tribute than "Alexander's Ragtime Band," Twentieth Century Fox cavalcade of American jazz, which is taking the customers 27 years back down Memory Lane at the Metropolitan this week.

The picture takes off in 1911 with the current hit tune Berlin's own favorite composition "Alexander's Ragtime Band" which was "the best band in the land," and carries on melodiously with Tin Pan Alley's most famous son providing the ragtime harmony.

As ageless as their slight blackbeard creator, this memory-haunting collection of 26 Berlin hit tunes includes most of the best jazz or ragtime or swing or whatever you may call it music written in the past quarter-century.

This miracle-man of the keyboard has written a collection of popular songs since 1911 that rate the best on the past 27 years as vividly as anything you'll find in the history books.

His songs so effectively erase the years that all married folk whose wedding predated the World War were unashamedly holding hands at [illegible] evening [illegible] seeing.

Lovely lovers Annie Fare and darkly handsome Tyrone Power epitomize romance for Alexander's Ragtime Band, a success. Hunt Racketeers In Auto Attack

Three men believed by police to be gambling racketeers were sought today after they attacked Nicholas DePalo, 24, of Autumn street, Malden, and stole his automobile.

Witnesses said the trio blocked DePalo's path on Essex street, Malden, pulled him from the car and then drove away.

Austen Lake:

Keynote to Autumn; Case of Captain Andy

FIRST KEYNOTE OF AUTUMN COMES to this corner from Captain March, the West Point athletic officer, who writes he will shortly visit our sun-scorched, rain-washed metropolis to arrange early details for the Harvard-Army game. The Point calls him "Andy." He is listed on Army rolls as "Francis." But we called him "Sis" when he was an undergraduate at Lafayette College before the World War—a slender, perky person with a glib line of garrulous gab and a secondary interest in sport.

AUSTEN LAKE

So, this is a yarn to show how circumstance sometimes moulds kids from unplastic, awkward shapes into something muscular and physically competent.

"Sis" was a wispy tyke among the gorilla breed, which usually came to college with corn silk in the ears, mine lamps in their hats, a yard of naked wrist sticking from the cuffs and emery paper chins fit for scratching matches on. "Sis" went to Lafayette in the football time when Easton, Pa., citizens habitually stayed indoors after dark and fastened their shutters against the varsity athletes who prowled down Northampton street, kicking off the front stoops and treeing the town constables.

Sis Didn't Measure Up

THE LAFAYETTE TEAMS OF THAT ERA were, of course, recruited from the anthracite regions, where burly types were picked off the slag heaps, or from the Lehigh valley farm fields where shaggy yokels were called from the plow. And no lad was thought less of for the spread of his shoulders or the thickness of his neck.

So "Sis," being a little spare about the ribs and a little meager through the withers, didn't get any varsity letters though he turned out with the squad and got waffle-ridges on his chest from being stamped down by third team cleats.

Tunney Gets Job For Doc Bagley | Braddock Has New Headache

By JACK CONWAY

DOC BAGLEY, who was Gene Tunney's manager when the latter was world's light heavyweight champion, now works for the former champion.

Mr. Boston

Bagley, like most of the other old time managers of boxers, has had tough sledding in recent years, while Tunney has climbed in the business world almost as rapidly as he did in boxing.

Tunney met Bagley recently at a New York sports function and asked him to drop in at his office on the following day. Bagley did and he is now selling liquor for one of the companies in which Tunney is an officer.

Tunney's broader business life has caused him to become more congenial. He has lost some of the aloofness he acquired as he took his duties as heavyweight champion seriously.

The other night in New York Tunney dropped in at Jack Dempsey's cocktail bar. He met many of his old friends there. Later Tunney invited the group to go to Jimmy Braddock's with him for a few rounds of cocktails.

Tunney has handled the million dollars he saved out of boxing well. He has been one of the few persons in recent years to make money in the stock market. He has also received fat salaries from the various companies with which he has been associated.

Braddock's Latest Headache

JIMMY BRADDOCK, who has always had difficulties with his business interests outside of boxing, is finding out all is not gold with the liquor and restaurant business in New York. Even the frequent presence of Joe DiMaggio has not been sufficient to make Braddock's bar profitable. The place has an excellent set up but the cash customers have not come in large enough numbers to please Braddock.

Jimmy is looking ahead to the Fall and Winter business and to the World's Fair that opens next year.

Even Jack Dempsey's restaurant and his Broadway cocktail bar have suffered from the general drop in business. Dempsey is offering moving pictures of his fights in an effort to attract the sightseers as well as the Broadway regulars.

Dempsey told me that he believes the business pick-up already under way will solve his difficulties.

Pastor headed for go with Louis

BOB PASTOR is being headed for a championship bout with Joe Louis in the summer of 1939.

Jimmy Johnston, ever hostile toward the Twentieth Century Club, has had an affair with Mike Jacobs, and the ring fortune of Pastor will be more secure in New York.

Johnston and Jacobs were allies years ago, and I was not surprised at the news they have decided to work together once more in the common pursuit of the dollar.

Jacobs, of course, will try to get the New York Athletic Commission to drop its suit against Johnston. It never helped boxing or any other sport to wash its dirty linen in public.

Garcia to Get Armstrong Bout

IT HAS been definitely agreed to by Eddie Mead that the Filipino welterweight, Ceferino Garcia will get a bout with Henry Armstrong. The latter will be for the world's welterweight championship. Armstrong does not have to defend his title to Lou Ambers in the New York Commission's next Wednesday night.

The fact the New York Athletic Commission says Armstrong's welterweight title will not be at stake against Ambers is not considered necessary by anybody. Ambers will enter the ring for next Wednesday at below 147 pounds and so if he wins he must necessarily become holder of the welterweights.

Garcia is a tough and powerful and the best puncher of any [illegible] under 150 pounds.

6	Citizen's Mate	67	G. & B. Kennel	6-1
7	Quick Count	66	Geo. Lippold Jr	6-1
8	Red Tong	62	Fred Street	8-1

TRAFFIC LAD likes the rail, has it and should score. PLAIN CHORD is the best of the rest. FAT ISBELL is a money possibility.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY

Second Half Daily Double	Second Half Daily Double
LADY DETOUR, IDLE MONEY, TIPOVER

2	Cagesey	63	G. Dahlberg	8-1
5	Ben's Lady	61	L. M. Kirkp'ick	8-1
7	Beaded Wings	58	Dan Sullivan	8-1

LADY DETOUR has the speed to score despite the outside position. IDLE MONEY can be close. TIPOVER is a money possibility.

THIRD RACE—5-16 MILE

FRISCO BEBE, ROSALEE MOORE, TREATY TRAFFIC

2	Frisco Bebe	61½	E. Rhine	3-1
1	Rosalee Moore	53	Homer Bagwell	4-1

6	Schoolgirl	67	Jane Richardson	6-1
7	My Cherry	54	Tom Baird	8-1
3	Professor	69	M. T. Dubiel	8-1

FRISCO BEBE should outbreak this field and score all the way. The chief opposition will come from ROSALEE MOORE. TREATY TRAFFIC should cove the rest.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY

DUSTY DAN, HELEN O., JUNE'S LADDIE

2	Dusty Dan	58½	G. Dahlberg	3-1
4	Helen O.	53	Cedar Pt. Ken'l	4-1

6	Flight Leader	64	O. R. Wehlauf	6-1
7	Mazzie	58½	Art Wilson	8-1
5	Girl Crazy	66	Jess Williams	10-1

DUSTY DAN has plenty of early luck and figures best here. HELEN O. should make it close. JUNE'S LADDIE is a serious threat.

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE

IRVIN ANDREW, NOLESS, GOVERNMENT PAY

1	Irvin Andrew	61	M. T. Dubiel	3-1
4	Noless	58	Perbe Spencer	4-1
6	Government Pay	57	L. M. Kirkp'ick	6-1

5	Dreamy Eyes	48	F. B. Stats	6-1
2	Box Office	74	M. C. Sparks	8-1
7	White Tempest	67½	G. Dahlberg	8-1

IRVIN ANDREW can, if it breaks, score over this field as it has been dropped. NOLESS will be dangerous. GOVERNMENT PAY should be in the money.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY

ANDREW MEADOWS, COURAGEOUS CARESS, BRISK GLEN

1	Andrew Me'dows	69	O. & B. Kennel	5-1
7	Co'g'ous Caress	70	C. A. Rhodes	4-1
4	Brisk Glen	69	Frank Lane	5-1

5	Dance Actor	68	Perbe Spencer	6-1
8	Stormy Breeze	73	Geo. Lippold Jr	6-1
2	Jim Glenn	69	John Hightouse	8-1
6	Rock Trawler	73½	Pat Conway	8-1

ANDREW MEADOWS, a speedster of parts, should win all the way with COURAGEOUS CARESS its most dangerous foe. BRISK GLEN should be in the money.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE

BLACK MOON, BEAVERSTEIN, BRIGHT BALLAD

1	Black Moon	64	Geo. Lippold Jr	3-1
2	Beaverstein	58½	F. B. Stats	4-1

7	Bruisey	64	Cedar Pt. Ken'l	5-1
6	Lou Ann	53	Homer Bagwell	6-1
8	Fawn Bison	58½	Dan Sullivan	6-1
5	Glee Girl	70	Jess Williams	8-1
4	Gallant Mick	73	M. J. Gavan	8-1

On the rail, BLACK MOON figures to lead this pack all the way with BEAVERSTEIN doing the forcing. BRIGHT BALLAD should save the show.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY

ASHMO, CRUISER CARESS, TRAFFIC GLENN

1	Ashmo	60½	Paul Boone	5-1
4	Cruiser Caress	62	C. A. Rhodes	4-1
6	Traffic Glenn	54	Frank Lane	8-1
2	Ada Fame	59	O. R. Wehlauf	5-1

8	Little Giant	75	J. L. Ayotte	6-1
7	Country Doctor	66	W. B. Hall	8-1
5	Princess Breeze	62	Geo. Lippold Jr	8-1

ASHMO has enough foot to run round the first turn on the head and withstand any challenge from CRUISER CARESS. TRAFFIC GLENN figures to be in the money.

NINTH RACE—5-16 MILE

Sportsmen's Park Derby Consolation

BLANCHE K., GILBY'S GIN, HURRY BY

1	Blanche K.	57	O. R. Wehlauf	3-1
3	Gilby's Gin	64	Dan Sullivan	4-1
7	Harry By	57	Fred Street	8-1
5	Fawn Fox	58	Fred Street	8-1
4	Sword Lady	54	O. & B. Kennel	8-1
2	Curhan's Express	51	W. B. Hall	6-1
6	Classy Traffic	54	Frank Lane	8-1
8	Lucile Larry	59	Geo. Lippold Jr	5-1

BLANCHE K. is the class of this field, likes the distance, is fit and should win. GILBY'S GIN is always trying and should be close. HURRY BY is an upset possibility.

TENTH RACE—5-16 MILE

MRS. SIMPSON, RECORD CLIPPER, CAMERON COUNTESS

1	Mrs. Simpson	57	J. L. Ayotte	5-1
2	Record Clipper	66	Dan Sullivan	4-1
4	Cam'n Countess	52	Hubert Bryant	5-1
3	Lady Blue H	49	W. L. Bryant	8-1
5	Parade	66	J. Hightouse	6-1
7	Meadow Cullet	65	M. C. Sparks	6-1
8	Click	67	Perbe Spencer	8-1
6	Another Chord	70	Fred Street	8-1

MRS. SIMPSON should atone for its last by showing in this number and win all the way. RECORD CLIPPER could take it all. CAMERON COUNTESS is always dangerous.

Lombardi Homer Beats Cubs in 14th

CINCINNATI, Aug. 12 (INS)—Clouting his 13th home run of the season in the 14th frame, Ernie Lombardi brought victory to the Cincinnati Reds, 8 to 7, over the Chicago Cubs.

Lombardi had failed in the ninth, fanning as the Reds rallied for two runs off Clay Bryant and Tex Carleton to deadlock the contest and send it into extra innings.

$138 TAUNTON DOUBLE

TAUNTON, Aug. 12—Two outsiders, Joe Lark and More Speed, scored in the first two races at Taunton dog track to return a double worth $138.80, the highest payoff of the week.

2-Ton Galento Wins Over Kid Pneumonia

TONY GALENTO, the "Newark Nightstick," to followers of the manly art of self-defense—and known to some as "The Beer Barrel that Walks Like a Man"—emerges victorious from the battle of his career, his fight with "Kid" Pneumonia. Tony was stricken down by bronchial penumonia just before his scheduled bout with John Henry Lewis. The "Kid" gave him a tough fight, but Tony won. And today Manager Joe Jacobs called at the Orange Memorial Hospital to help Tony from his sick bed. On the left we see Tony flashing his victory smile to an equally joyous Jacobs. In the center we have Joe helping Tony to the "deck." And on the right we have—horrors and horrors—Tony sitting on the edge of his bed and admiring his painted toenails. Think what the boys in the back room will say ! ! ! Shades of the toughest guy in Joisey ! ! ! If Tony could only fight barefoot—his opponent would be dazed by his dazzling footwork.

Knitters, Holy Name Play Tonight

After being rained out last night at the Fens Stadium, Back Bay, the Massachusetts Knitting Mills of Jamaica Plain and the Holy Name A. A. of Roslindale-West Roxbury will resume their semi-final series tonight for the right to meet the St. Augustines of South Boston for the city title.

The series in these semi-finals is limited to three out of five games, but to date with four games already played only one victory is credited to each club, the remaining two games resulting in ties. Holy Name A. A. will send Sharpe to the mound, while Billie Martel of the Silk Sox will elect Sam White to take care of the Knitters' pitching.

White allowed the church nine only two hits in his last appearance at Fallon Field, but the game resulted in a tie.

Chuck Sharpe, who holds the only win over the Knitters in the current series, looked very effective beating the Silk Sox last Friday night, 9-4, at the Fens stadium after they had knocked Thompson off the mound, and in addition is a splendid slugger, which might be cause for him being selected tonight to hurl.

After beating the ace of the Holy Name hurlers, Fullerton, the Silk Sox feel they have attained their lasting eyes and expect to parade into the finals with two straight wins.

Dodgers Arrange For 2 Night Games

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers announced today they would play two more night games at Ebbets Field this season. The game scheduled with Philadelphia last Wednesday night and rained out will be played Thursday night, Sept. 8. In addition the Dodgers will play the Boston Bees Friday night, August 19.

Dodgers Pay $30,000 For George

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers will pay the equivalent of $30,000 for their new backstop, Charley George, acquired from the New Orleans club of the Southern Association.

Two players, to be named later, and about $15,000 in cash were reported involved in the deal, announced today.

George, a full-blooded Greek, is a native of Georgia and former all-around athlete at Oglethorpe University. He had a previous major league trial with the Cleveland Indians, for whom he was behind the bat when Bob Feller, on September 13, 1936, fanned 17 Athletics to equal the major league strikeout record.

George, who has been hitting over .300, will report to the Dodgers in early September, at the close of the Southern Association season.

Legion Teams Start Series

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 12 (AP)—Forty-six state champion teams in American Legion junior baseball, training school for big-league stars like Cleveland's Bob Feller and Washington's Buddy Lewis, will play throughout the United States today through Tuesday in 12 regional tournaments along the road to the 1938 "junior world series."

Three regional tourneys start today and the other nine tomorrow. The winners will go into three sectional meets next week-end, leading up to the final series for the national championship.

The Legion's national headquarters here reported today more than half a million boys over 17 were playing junior baseball, intended to teach citizenship through sportsmanship, in 30,000 teams throughout the country.

Legion officials reported that information from 118 of the 277 clubs in the country's 39 professional baseball leagues showed 521 former junior baseball players on their rosters, 32 of them in the majors.

Hospital Too Quiet For Two-Ton Tony

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 11 (INS)—Two-Ton Tony Galento, who now weighs a mere one ton after subduing "that bum" pneumonia, tomorrow will be siren'd home in an ambulance despite the admonitions of pulse-feelers and temperature-takers that he requires another week of repose in Orange Memorial Hospital.

"I gotta leave," a wry expression crinkled the pallid countenance of Mr. Joe Jacobs' rotund box fighter. "I can't stand it here any longer. It's too quiet an' ya can't see anybody except once in a while. Anyway, I wanna go home an' be with my wife an' kid."

ONE SMOKE A DAY

"I wanted 'em to let me go home in my own car," Two Ton pouted, "but they said, 'No,' I hadda have an am'bulance."

"Go on, tell 'im why go gotta go home in an ambulance," prompted Mary, his mate.

"Aw," said Tony.

"Tell 'im," insisted Mary, "that the doctors think you oughta stay here another week and you don't want to."

"Yeah," confessed Anthony, having pulled a big cigar out of the air somehow and inserted it between his molars. "But I'll be all right. I can't stand it here any longer. It's too quiet.

"Get me a match, Mary, will ya? I'm allowed one of these a day," he beamed. "I'm really not supposed to have any, but I get 'em anyhow. Beer? No, I ain't had any beer, but I guess it would be okay if I drank some.

BEAT DEATH

"Y'know," Two-Ton puffed at his ease, "I had one of the worst cases of pneumonia on record. They call it Type 3—it's one of the worst types there is. One of every two people who've had it died. They didn't have any serum for it until last year.

"They didn't think I would live either. They tell me I was in a fog. I don't remember anything about it. All I ca nsay," the gallant Galento puffed an extra manly puff, "is they can't kill a good man.'

Buzz Harvey Inspires Orleans

By FRANK CONWAY

Cape League Correspondent

ORLEANS, Aug. 12—There isn't a single person connected with the Cape Cod League who'll disagree with the statement that Charlie "Buzz" Harvey is turning in a Grade A job as majordomo of the Orleans nine.

Moreover, there is hardly a man who has watched the Orleans outfit under fire this summer who hasn't exhibited some kind of amazement at the hustle and punch displayed by the one-time gridiron great at Holy Cross College.

Harvey has worked wonders with a team that captured only nine games of 50 played in 1937 and can now show a record of 13 triumphs in 28 starts, and the season is still quite young.

Furthermore, his Orleans forces have walloped Harwich, the team that is now pacing the loop, more than any of the other clubs in the circuit.

Harvey attributes the success of the team to its willingness to work.

"It's the hustle the team has been showing. Every one of my 11 players are on their toes all the time. They don't stop fighting from the time the first ball is thrown until the final batter is retired."

What Harvey doesn't say, however, is that he's the fellow who has been keeping the club on the jump. Big Buzz is showing the same fight and pepper that made him one of the best football players in the nation when playing for Dr. Eddie Anderson's Crusader eleven back in 1933.

Dog Show At Myopia

Seven leading specialty clubs of New England will actively support their individual breed at the North Shore Kennel Club's fifth annual dog show to be held Saturday, August 27, at the Myopia Hunt Club in Hamilton.

The Irish Setter Club of New England will conduct its annual specialty show for the fourth consecutive year. President Edwin Dresser of the I. S. C. hopes to have the Irish setters once more lead all breeds in the number of entries.

Charles D. Burrage, leader of the Irish Wolfhound Association of New England, anticipates the largest entry of wolfhounds ever to be shown in this district when the association holds its first annual specialty show in conjunction with the North Shore Kennel event.

Other dog groups who expect strong representation include the Doberman Pinscher Club, the Scottish Deerhound, the Fox Terrier Club of New England and the Irish Water Spaniel Club of America.

German Cup Team Heads for Boston

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—The German Davis Cup tennis team arrived here on the Europa and continued on almost immediately to Boston, where next Thursday it will engage either Japan or Australia in the inter-zone final.

Henner Henkel, George Von Metaxa and Rolf Goepfert compose the team, with F. Conrad Uhl along as non-playing captain.

The winner of the inter-zone next week will challenge the American team for the cup at the Germantown Cricket Club on Sept. 3, 4 and 5.

Lefty Grove Goes to Specialist

Bull Dog's Get Worth $11,000

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Charles Payson Shipman, owner of the Manhasset Stables, acquired four yearlings for $26,700 at the Saratoga sales last night in hope that one at least would approach the ability of her great juvenile. Thingumbob, destroyed after it broke a leg in the Sanford Stakes yesterday.

Mrs. Payson's purchases were the high spots of the sale which saw 53 head from the C. V. Whitney, Tom Piatt and Thomas Carr Piatt Farms sold for $122,050, an average of [illegible].

Mrs. Payson purchased most of her stock from Whitney's consignment, going to $10,500 for a bay colt by Pennant out of Imported Call Girl. The W. L. Ranch of Los Angeles, Calif., owned by Harry Warner, movie executive, paid the top price of the night, $11,000 for a bay colt by Bull Dog out of Skyblue Pink.

Tonight's sale will include yearlings from Phil T. Chinn's Old Hickory Farm, the Duntreath Farm and the Mereworth Stud.

In Chinn's consignment is a brown colt by Whichone out of Beguine, while the Duntreath group offers a bay colt by Head Play out of Imported Miss Gainsborough. A bay colt by The Porter out of Irma Labrot is in the Mereworth Stud's offering.

Galento, Lewis To Meet Feb. 22

ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 12 (AP)—Joe Jacobs, manager of Tony Galento, the National Boxing Association's No 1 challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight world title, announced the Orange nightstick would met John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion, February 22 at Atlntic City.

Galento, stricken with bronchopneumonia July 21, a few days before he was scheduled to meet Lewis at Philadelphia, will leave Orange Memorial Hospital today, Jacobs said.

Revenue Soft Ballers Play In Wakefield

As a result of the strong interest in soft ball manifest around Boston, the Boston office of the Collector of Internal Revenue has organized a soft ball aggregation that bids fair to be one of the strongest in New England.

Made up of former college and big league ball players, the Deputy Collectors have been working out and playing practice games at Soldiers Field, Brighton, for the past few weeks in preparation for their opening game to be played tonight against the Wakefield Business Men's soft ball team.

Members of the Revenue team include "Bob" Curley, 1936 Holy Cross football captain and all-round athlete, Joe Twomey, former East Boston High and New England League star, Bob Morris, Exeter and Princeton, Tom O'Brien, old Catholic University performer, Jim Blake, outstanding batter in the 3-I League in 1922, Bus Flynn, Boston Latin and Bates College, Sam Bithoney, former fur trapper who once played for the Seals, Johnny Murphy, Southern Methodist, John Handrahan, old Dean Academy star, Al Kaup, well-known Pere Marquette and South Boston athlete, Eddie Boyle, famous sports official and former Cambridge athlete, John Finnan, Duke, Tom Flanagan, University of Michigan, Bill Pearson, who had a tryout with the Cubs, Nik Flynn, famous western Massachusetts athlete, C. Sullivan, Paul Bergin, Joe Byrne, Pat Walsh, all semi-pro ball players.

Any teams looking for games should get in touch with Manager Charlie Ramsey, Room 801 Post Office Bldg., Boston.

Keystones to Face Cardinals Sunday

What gives promise of being one of the outstanding pitching duels of the year is scheduled for William Eustis Playground Sunday afternoon when the Roxbury Cardinals, with Sully DeStefano on the firing line, lock horns with the Keystone Club and their ace flinger, Charlie Landers.

Landers, who established himself as something of a schoolboy wonder while at Dedham High, owns a record of nine wins and no losses in the Business League division of the Park Department, in which circuit the Keystones play.

DeStefano has won 10, lost two, and tied one for the season.

Jilt Wins Girl $1

WORCESTER, Aug. 12—A 5-and-10-cent store romance, which allegedly blossomed into marriage plans only to wilt in a breach of promise suit, was legally valued here today at a dollar.

That was the amount of damages awarded by Judge Albert T. Wall in district court to pretty Rose L. Levine, 22, in her $10,000 claim against Irving Goodman, 24, for failing to carry out his proposal of marriage.

Miss Levine testified that they met in October, 1937, and that Goodman was the first man ever to have kissed her. She further stated that a month later they were discussing plans for their marriage.

Judge Wall sustained her charge that Goodman had agreed to the wedding. He declared, however, that she "had not been damaged" by the failure of Goodman to carry out the contract.

Law's Pawn

Separated from his parents when they were deported to Canada, American-born Gerald Richard, 9, neared reunion with them when the Boston Evening American and Mayor Fred E. Perry of Gardner moved to cut red tape.

Further details of the Boston Evening American's survey of water pollution at Greater Boston bathing beaches will be found today on Page 13.

PARENTS EXILED, AID IS PLEDGED BOY 'ORPHAN'

Mayor Fred E. Perry of Gardner and immigration officials of the United States and Canada were collaborating with the Boston Evening American today in a move to re-unite nine-year-old Gerald Richard and his deported parents and sister.

Gerald, born in the United States and therefore an American citizen, was made a "legal orphan" when his Canadian-born sister, father and mother were sent back to their native New Brunswick.

Because Mr. and Mrs. Maxine Richard, the parents, were penniless and could not prove themselves able to support little Gerald, he was refused admission to Canada.

In an effort to cut the amazing red tape tangle Mayor Perry made a novel offer today.

He said Gardner's welfare department, which had been caring for the Richard family, would

Nazi Flier's Wife Glad:

'He Wasn't in Bar All Night

Copyright, 1938, by International News Service

BERLIN, Aug. 12—To the history of great aviation accomplishments must be added the comment of Frau Alfred Henke, wife of the German captain who flew a commercial plane from Berlin to New York in 25 hours.

"I'm glad he was on that flight instead of sitting in bars all night."

Whatever Captain Henke's nocturnal habits may be, he skippered the longest point-to-point west-bound crossing of the Atlantic and did it with bull's-eye precision. He and his three companions are going to fly their four-motored Condor back to Berlin.
